MITCHELL PLEDGES ACTION . . .

Crime Growth Not Yet Halted

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said Tuesday that the growth of organized crime probably has not been arrested in the last decade and promised a new attack on the problem.

"Too few Americans appreciate the dimensions of the problem of organized crime, its impact on all Americans . . . ," Mitchell said.

For example, he said, the housewife has no way of knowing that when the price of meat or bread or other foods rises, "the increase may be the result of an organized crime conspiracy."

Mitchell testified before a Senate judiciary subcommittee on criminal laws and procedure. He said that in general existing laws against organized crime appear adequate but there is need for more funds and manpower.

Attack Coordinated

The stepped-up attack, he said, will be coordinated federal-state effort.

Soon after he took office last January, Mitchell said, he began a study of the strengths and weaknesses of the federal effort against organized crime. When it is finished soon, he said the Justice Department will send recommendations to President Nixon.

Asked if that would be within 30 days, Mitchell replied;

"If we don't, we're likely to incur the wrath of the gentleman in the White House."

Mitchell indicated that the strike force concept begun by his predecessor, Ramsey Clark, to fight organized crime would be continued.

Cities Singled Out

Strike forces, composed of men from various federal agencies, go into specific cities where the crime problem is most acute.

"We are examining the possibilities of establishing regional field offices that can assist the state and local authorities on a day-to-day basis and thereby institutionalize the strike force effort," he said.

Mitchell said the organized criminal fraternity of La Cosa Nostra is composed of some 22 "families," has a national membership of over 5,000 and has a "family" in most major cities.

Cosa Nostra influence covers the nation, he said, because gangsters who are not members must obtain Cosa Nostra consent to maintain local criminal operations.

Commander Arrives

Taipei (UPI) — Gen. Joseph J. Nazzaro, commander in chief of the U.S. Pacific Air Force, has arrived in Taipei for a two-day visit. Nazzaro will tour Chinese Nationalist and American air bases in central and south Taiwan and met with high ranking air force officers of the two nations.

WEEPS DURING MEDAL CEREMONY

Mrs. Joseph Newlin of Wellsville, Ohio, sobs on the shoulder of her husband at the White House Tuesday during the posthumous awarding of the Medal of Honor to her son, Marine Pfc. Melvin Newlin, who died in action in Vietnam. President Nixon holds the citation while the Marine's father clasps the medal.

Allies Counter Saigon Threat

. . . REDS SHELL DA NANG

Saigon (AP) — Enemy rockets slammed into a shanty neighborhood of Da Nang and around the northern city's navy pier early Wednesday. Far to the south, U.S. forces pressed one of the war's biggest drives to blunt a threat to Saigon.

First reports from Da Nang said 11 Vietnamese civilians were killed in the fourth rocket attack on the city of the enemy's spring offensive. Twenty-four persons were reported wounded, three of them U.S. military personnel. Many of the victims were women and children.

Attacks In North

The U.S. Command in Saigon reported a total of 25 overnight rocket and mortar attacks on cities and bases, concentrated mostly in the northernmost 1st Corps military area.

Since the offensive began Feb. 23, Saigon has been rocketed five times and the ancient capital Hue twice. President Nixon has said attacks on major population areas violate the "understanding" that led to the halt in bombing of North Vietnam. He has promised "appropriate response" if the attacks do not cease.

Authorities said about ten 122mm rockets hit Da Nang. Their characteristic sharp explosions mingled with the roar of U.S. and South Vietnamese artillery counterfire. There was no immediate word whether any of the attackers were hit. No significant damage to allied facilities was reported.

'Oh No, Oh No'

At least six homes were destroyed by the enemy barrage and a fire it set off. Military policemen pulled dead and injured from the debris. In one house a woman hunched over four bodies moaning, "Oh no. Oh no."

Northwest of Saigon, about 10,000 U.S. troops launched a drive through battle-scarred stands of rubber trees in an attempt to shatter enemy preparations for an expected thrust on the capital.

The U.S. infantrymen and tanks kicked off the sweep, called Operation Atlas Wedge, in and around the sprawling Michelin rubber plantation about 40 miles from Saigon.

Their goal is to block the North Vietnamese 7th Division, believed to be moving through the area along the Saigon River corridor toward the capital.

Sweep 'Pre-Emptive'

AP correspondent Edwin Q. White reported from the field that U.S. commanders believe as many as 7,500 soldiers of the 7th Division may be attempting to push south. One officer said the sweep "is a pre-emptive act against a drive on Saigon."

Helicopter scouts spotted 300 enemy soldiers in the area Monday and called in fighter-bombers and artillery that killed 28, the U.S. Command reported.

A spokesman said there were no reports of additional contact Tuesday.

Units In Drive

Units of the U.S. 1st and 25th Infantry Divisions, the 1st Air Cavalry Division and the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment are conducting the coordinated drive.

U.S. Intelligence reports say the Communist command has deployed four North Vietnamese-Viet Cong divisions and several independent regiments with some 38,000 men in a rough arc from northwest of Saigon to the northeast.

While any major assault against Saigon would come from these troops, guerrilla battalions south of the capital pose the most immediate threat, well-informed sources said.

Bill To License Osteopaths Moves

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Medical Association and the osteopaths finally got together Tuesday, and the Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee was apparently impressed.

Dispatched to the floor on a unanimous vote was Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter's LB1223, a measure to allow licensing of graduates of osteopathic schools of medicine.

Previously, such graduates have been barred from practicing in the state Similar bills in other sessions of the Legislature have encountered heavy opposition, but Tuesday there was none.

Jim Raglin, representing the Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, called the bill "monumental." And Dr. Frank Tanner of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Medical Association, said testifying for the bill was "a new and pleasant experience."

Both noted that the measure was essentially a compromise, worked out as a result of conferences between the osteopaths and medical doctors.

Also advanced by the committee Tuesday were measures which would ease some of the requirements for would-be cosmetologists and to provide licensing of hearing aid dealers and technicians.

More Changes

The hearing aid bill, also sponsored by Carpenter, was amended in committee, and Carpenter promised that other amendments would be offered on the floor.

Carpenter said the measure would provide regulation for what he called a "very important operation." Persons who fit hearing aids are not currently required to be licensed.

Also approved was Lincoln Sen. John Knight's LB1002, a bill allowing persons with the "equivalent" of a high school education or two years of high school and 18-years-old, to be licensed as cosmetologists.

Current requirements state that the applicant must have a high school diploma. Proponents said the measure would allow some high school drop-outs to find worthwhile careers in the field of cosmetology.

Knight's bill was opposed by the Nebraska State Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, but was supported by the Nebraska Cosmetology Schools Association.

The committee advanced, 5-1, a bill sponsored by Omaha Sen. Henry F. Pedersen which would allow the State Anatomical Board more power in the disposal of unclaimed bodies.

Backed By Schools

Representatives of the state's two medical schools supported the bill, noting that present law is ambiguous and could create a shortage of cadavers for medical students.

Pedersen said that law now provides for the board to only receive bodies which must be buried at public expense — but that Social Security funds art set aside for that purpose in some cases even where the bodies are unclaimed.

"It's the federal law that's killing us," he said.

1.1 Million Vehicles Recalled

Detroit (UPI) — General Motors Corp. Tuesday announced it was recalling more than 1.13 million cars, trucks and school buses for correction of possible brake malfunctions.

It was the second massive recall campaign announced by the world's largest automaker in less than one month.

One death and three injuries may have resulted from the failure of a rubber-type seal which controlled hydraulic pressure in the breaking system of a school bus carrying 46 persons, GM said.

The recall included all 967,000 regular size Pontiac cars for 1965 and 1966; 164,050 Chevrolet and GMC truck and coach bus chassis and medium-duty trucks; 1,450 Chevrolet and 590 GMC Truck and Coach Division 1969 four-wheel drive light-duty trucks, and 630 heavy-duty highway tractors.

Youth From Lincoln High Schools Air Opinions Before School Board

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education got an earful Tuesday night.

Fifteen students from the four Lincoln high schools met with five of the school board members for nearly two hours discussing what is right and wrong with the school system — mostly what is wrong.

The ten boys and five girls were student leaders and editors invited to meet with the board informally as a part of the board's review of the school curriculum. Student comments and suggestions regarding curriculum and other matters were encouraged to aid board members in making final decisions on recommendations from the school staff.

Praise, Criticism

Individual teachers and administrators in each school, many named, received plaudits or criticism throughout most of the students' conversation about specific subjects, counseling and teaching methods.

The students included Garald Michaud, Mike Wilkins, Chuck Sinclair from Northeast; Mark Fullerton, Janet Bradley and Tom Cullinan from Southeast; Niesje Steinkruger, Laurie Smith and Richard Rodenburg from East; Laurie Keech, Gary Chesan, Ed Williams, Allen Doolittle and Terry Coffee from Lincoln High.

The youths had lots of gripes to air about teachers, which, it was pointed out, were based on personal experience.

Several students attacked the loyalty of some teachers to outdated textbook material,

House Okays Pay Raises For Leaders Of Congress

Washington (UPI) — The House approved pay raises for the congressional hierarchy by voice vote Tuesday over the protests of one member that a taxpayers' revolt is brewing.

Approved and sent to the Senate, where passage is assured, was a bill providing a total of $144,000-a-year in salary increases for the vice president, the speaker and House and Senate Democratic and Republican leaders.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, opposed the bill and sought in vain at least to have his colleagues go on record by roll-call vote.

'Taxpayers Interested'

"The taxpayers are vitally interested, I can tell you that," he said. "The tax collectors are abroad in the land like lice. Don't be sure if this continues that you won't be running head-on into a taxpayers' revolt one of these days."

The bill would give Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Speaker John W. McCormack raises from $43,000 to $62,500 a year, plus an unchanged $10,000 in expenses.

Congressional leaders' pay would rise from $52,500 a year — the new salary voted earlier for all members of Congress — to $55,000 a year. This does not count an unchanged $3,000 in expenses.

In addition, the Senate president pro tempore, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., who previously received the same $42,500 that all members of Congress gained March 1, would get a boost to $55,000 because of his position.

Limousine

Russell would get no expense allowance, but like the others involved in the latest bill, he is furnished a limousine and chauffeur.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., who engineered the entire pay raise package that included the 41% increase for Congress and the highest officials of the executive and judicial branches, warned that any adverse vote Tuesday would "demean our own branch of government."

Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., asked if further such pay raises weren't in the works for other top House employes. Udall said he didn't know.

Income Tax Chief Favors New Look

Washington (AP) — The next commissioner of internal revenue feels it's time to take a new look at the nation's tax laws.

But Randolph W. Thrower, a soft-spoken Southerner who chooses his words slowly and cautiously — and then doesn't utter very many — has no specific proposals to offer as he assumes the role of the nation's chief tax collector.

Thrower, a 55-year-old Atlanta lawyer whose name is well-known in tax circles, was named IRS commissioner Tuesday by President Nixon. The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation after hearings by the Finance Committee.

He is married and the father of four daughters and one son.

An outdoorsman, Thrower likes to swim, fish, and garden.

He has yet to file his 1968 income tax return.

City Council Contest Draws Record Field

. . . With One Day Left To File

A record number of candidates have filed for election to the City Council with one day left for filing.

The total of 31 persons — 29 men and 2 women — who have already filed for the council tops the previous record of 27 set during the 1961 primary election.

The April 8th primary will narrow down the City Council field to six who will vie for the three seats which are up for grabs in the May general election.

All three councilmen whose terms expire this May — Lloyd Hinkley, John Comstock and Carroll Thompson — have indicated that they will not seek re-election.

In other contests involved in the primary eight candidates have filed for the Airport Authority and seven for the Board of Education.

Deadline for filing for the city offices is 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Also on the primary election ballot is a charter amendment which if passed would increase the salary of council members from $20 per meeting to $300 per month.

New York Times News Summary

U.S. Seeks Seabed Free Of Nuclear Arms

(C) New York Times News Service

Geneva —The Soviet Union introduced a draft treaty to the Geneva disarmament conference that would ban nuclear weapons and any type of military installations on the ocean floor outside of the 12-mile limit. Simultaneously, President Nixon urged that the conference begin negotiations to "assure that the seabed, man's latest frontier, remains free from the nuclear arms race." (More on Page 2.)

Chinese Attack Again

Moscow —Chinese forces were reported to have attacked Damansky Island with mortars and machine guns. The island lies on the disputed border between Russia and China, and Pravda suggested that the Chinese were moving more troops into the troubled area. There was no mention of an official protest concerning the incident.

De Gaulle's Plan Partly Illegal

Paris —The Council of State, one of France's two highest advisory bodies, told President de Gaulle that his plan for a referendum on regional reform and transformation of the senate into a purely consultative body were unconstitutional in part. The council charged that the referendum lumped too many complex items into one and thus "falsified" the meaning of popular consultation.

Bunker To Fly Home

Saigon —The U.S. Embassy announced that Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker will fly home to meet with President Nixon at the end of the week. This will be the first meeting between the President and the ambassador since the inauguration. Sources in Saigon said Bunker was being called back to participate in an intensive policy review on Vietnam.

Counteroffensive A Response

Washington — White House sources indicated that the counteroffensive launched against the Viet Cong in the Saigon area was a response to the current enemy offensive. Indications from other sources were that President Nixon was still delaying any dramatic response, such as a limited bombing attack just north of the demilitarized zone.

'Log Rolling' To Be Attacked

Washington —The Antitrust Division of the Justice Department intends to mount a major legal campaign against reciprocal business dealings. The dealings — you do business with me and I'll do business with you — have been "essentially neglected for too long," said Richard W. McLaren, the division's new chief.

House Approves Raises

Washington —The House voted pay increases for Vice President Agnew and for congressional leaders. (More on Page 1.)

GM Recalls Thousands

Detroit —General Motors Corp. announced the recall of 1,133,720 cars, trucks and school buses for potential safety defects in their brake systems. (More on Page 1.)

'War On Poverty' Scored

Washington —The General Accounting Office made public a 14-month study of the "war on poverty." The report said the "war" had been poorly administrated and that some of its programs fell far short of their goals. The report was particularly harsh on the Job Corps, saying that its trainees fared little better than other disadvantaged job seekers.

Lindsay To Run Again

New York —"I run because too much is at stake . . ." With these words John V. Lindsay announced his intention of seeking a second term as mayor of New York City. Flanked by an array of Republican might, Lindsay said his fight would begin in the June primary against "reactionary elements."

U.S., Russia Disagree On Seabed Arms Ban

World News

Geneva (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin sent messages Tuesday to the 17-nation disarmament conference.

Nixon said the U.S. objective "is to leave behind the period of confrontation and to enter an era of negotiations."

Kosygin declared a solution must be found to such problems as "stopping the manufacture of nuclear weapons, the reduction and destruction of their stockpiles" and a limitation and reduction of means of their delivery.

Nixon's Priority Seabed

Nixon gave priority to a treaty to bar nuclear and other weapons of mass destruction from the seabed, saying such an agreement would "prevent an arms race before it has a chance to start." The Russians presented a draft treaty banning use of the seabeds for military purposes.

The President also said he hopes that the international political situation will permit talks in the near future between the United States and the Soviet Union on limiting antiballistic missile systems.

While Kosygin made no mention of antiballistic missiles, the fact he sent a public message to the 7-year-old talks indicated Soviet interest in new disarmament agreements with the United States. Soviet leaders rarely have sent messages to the congress.

'All Military Purposes

The Russians presented a draft treaty saying: "The use for all military purposes of the seabed of the ocean floor and the subsoil thereof, beyond the 12-mile maritime zone of coastal states, shall be prohibited."

Chief Soviet delegate Alexei A. Roshchin told newsmen that the draft applies to all weapons, "not just nuclear arms."

The new U.S. delegation head, Gerard C. Smith, said at a news conference that the treaty will have to be studied to see just what it implies, but added: "I am inclined to doubt that we would have any interest in a treaty banning any military use of the seabed."

Smith Sees Difficulty

Asked if the Russian draft apparently refers to all weapons, Smith replied: "If that's what it means it would be very difficult to reach an agreement in that sort of language. It would mean the complete demilitarization of the ocean floor."

He said the U.S. view is that such a treaty should be confined to all nuclear weapons and weapons of mass destruction, which would have to be defined by negotiation.

There was no immediate reaction from the eight nonaligned nations taking part in the conference, Brazil, Burma, Egypt, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria and Sweden.

But many were believed to be suspicious that a seabed treaty is a deal previously agreed on by Washington and Moscow in a bid to push into the background more pressing issues such as an underground nuclear test ban treaty.

The start of U.S.-Soviet antimissile talks would effectively counteract any criticism.

Committee OK's 5 More Years For School Aid

Washington (AP) — The House Education and Labor Committee voted 21-13 Tuesday over Republican objections to extend the Johnson administration's major school aid bill until 1975.

Declaring the Democratic controlled committee was depriving the Nixon administration of a chance to draw up its own school program, Republican members said they would try to get the House to scale down the extension period.

The bill extends for five years — at an authorized total cost of $25 billion — the program former President Lyndon B. Johnson called his proudest legislative achievement. It makes federal grants to local school districts to help them provide special education for children from poor families.

Monk To Receive Special Treatment

Saigon (UPI) — A 48-year-old Buddhist monk sentenced by the government to 10 years at hard labor will not have to serve his time in prison, President Nguyen Van Thieu announced Tuesday night.

Instead, said Thieu, Thich (Venerable) Thien Minh will receive "special treatment."

Minh was sentenced by two military courts Saturday and Monday to 10 years hard labor and five years confinement on charges of harboring deserters and rebels and being in possession of weapons and illegal documents.

Army Reduces Sentence Of GI

Washington (UPI) — The Army, target of growing criticism for its handling of the San Francisco Presidio stockade mutiny case, Tuesday announced a reduction in the sentence of one of the soldiers involved from 15 to two years.

The reduction was granted to Pvt. Nesrey D. Sood, 26, of Oakland, Calif., one of 27 prisoners charged with mutiny for staging a sit-down to protest the fatal shooting of a fellow inmate by a guard, who claimed the man was escaping.

NOW YOU CAN HAVE STARS IN YOUR EYES

It's not love that puts these stars in your eye. It's a contact lens. Robert Morrison, a Harrisburg, Pa., optometrist, showed the lenses in Houston in combinations of yellow and purple and orange and white. If you're not that daring, the lenses also come in solid blue, green and violet — in fact, any color you want. Morrison says the lenses are "just for fun." They were developed, without frills, for post-cataract operations. Some patients need lenses that keep light from the iris.

Psychologist Concedes He Copied Words

Los Angeles (UPI) —A defense psychologist conceded Tuesday under cross-examination that he copied the language of a psychiatrist's casebook to describe the paranoid personality of Sirhan B. Sirhan, the 24-year-old Arab immigrant on trial for the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Associate prosecutor John Howard fell short in his apparent aim to get the psychologist, Dr. Martin M. Schorr, to admit he used the basebook to diagnose the defendant's mental state.

"It's the language I used, not the diagnosis," Schorr said when pertinent passages were read from "Casebook of a Crime Psychiatrist" by Dr. James A. Brussel.

When pressed by Howard as to whether he copied the language "almost exactly," Schorr replied:

"Yes, I think that's a fair statement that I copied almost exactly the phraseology for this report."

Arabs Unify Command On Israel's East Front

By United Press International

Egyptian and Israeli forces Tuesday battled across the Suez Canal with heavy artillery, tank guns and rifles, breaking a four-day lull on Israel's western front.

In Cairo, King Hussein of Jordan disclosed that Jordanian, Iraqi and Syrian armed forces are under a unified Arab command to oppose Israel on its eastern front.

As usual, both sides blamed the other for triggering the cross-canal duel along a 15-mile front, from Suez City at the southern end to the Bitter Lakes area.

Cairo radio said there were no casualties on the Egyptian side but that the Israeli shells touched off fires which were quickly extinguished. Cairo radio said Egyptian forces on the west bank "destroyed Israeli equipment and killed their personnel who opened fire."

An official Israeli communique said the exchange lasted for 65 minutes until U.N. truce observers arranged a cease-fire. The communique said one Israeli soldier was slightly wounded in the fighting.

Hussein concluded two days of talks in Cairo with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and other officials. He also met with U.S. troubleshooter Robert Anderson to discuss, among other topics, his proposed visit to Washington for talks with President Nixon on the Middle East crisis.

Before flying to Saudi Arabia for more talks with King Faisal, Hussein told the authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahram that the new unified command had significantly tightened Arab forces along the eastern front.

Diplomatic sources in Beirut said the unified Arab command headquarters are based at Sueweida in Syria, 50 miles south of Damascus.

Personal Income Up $5.25 Billion

Washington (UPI) — The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that personal incomes of Americans rose by $5.25 billion in February to an adjusted annual rate of $721.4 billion. The gain was twice the $2.5 billion increase in January.

Turkey Creek, Big Blue Cause Lowland Flooding

Lowland flooding caused by snowmelt due to warm weather continued in parts of central and eastern Nebraska Tuesday. But streams were filling up and crests above technical flood stage were forecast for many areas.

Turkey Creek in Saline County was reported "quite high" and rising, but not expected to endanger any lives, according to Sheriff John Svehla. State Highway 15, two and a half miles south of Dorchester, was closed due to flooding of the stream there. South of Friend, Turkey Creek was spreading out over lowlands and covered a county road west of DeWitt.

The Big Blue at Ulysses was 18.3 feet and slowly rising. Water lacked about three tenths of a foot of going over the road there. The river was also rising upstream at Surprise and downstream at Seward.

An ice jam on the Loup River just south of Columbus was causing low land flooding and closing a major highway, Civil Defense spokesmen said.

Virgil Brockman said Highway 30 from Columbus west to Silver Creek was closed to traffic due to water running over the highway.

He said the Country Club motel south of Columbus was surrounded with water about two-feet deep and occupants were evacuated.

At Milford the Big Blue has an ice jam just west of U.S. 6 bridge, but does not seem to be causing water to back up, observers said. The Big Blue is forecast to reach nine feet above flood stage at Crete Friday.

Lincoln Creek at Seward is expected to crest at 19 feet Wednesday morning and 20 feet the following day. Flood stage is 15 feet.

Only Basements Wet

The West Fork of the Big Blue will crest at 21 feet Thursday near Dorchester, forecasters say. Flood stage is 15 feet.

At Kenesaw in Adams County water was coming into the community from the north, but the water level appeared to be going down Tuesday afternoon, according to Mrs. D. L. Boesen, the mayor's wife.

Water seemed to be receding at Shelton after inundating part of the south end of town Monday due to snowmelt in nearby fields.

In Merrick County, a bridge approach on the Palmer-Worms road, 3.5 miles south of U.S. 30 over Moores Creek, was washed out by high water, observers said.

Six inches of water was over U.S. 30 just west of Kearney.

State Highway 74 between Ayr and Holstein was closed by runoff water.

The Elkhorn at Neligh in northeast Nebraska was open Tuesday. An observer at Hadar reported no rise in the North Fork.

Board Hears Students

the necessity to accept some teachers' interpretations about debatable problems in order to pass, and the lack of material relevant to modern problems.

Younger Better

It was agreed that students seemed to have better educational experiences with younger teachers. The youths said newer instructors were "more liberal in their ideas and were willing to experiment."

One boy noted that the education teachers themselves received was reflected in their teaching methods, and long-time teachers "need to be updated," he suggested.

Asked by the board whether or not students should rate teachers, the teen-agers responded with different opinions. Some favored rating their instructors while two or three were against it.

Personality Counts

An East High student warned that evaluations would be based on personality whether or not students learned from an individual.

A Lincoln High boy said "we should realize there is a place for a student and other ways to change things, such as student-school board dialogue. The teachers themselves know who the good teachers are."

Another Lincoln High student asked that youths be allowed to take criticisms of teachers to administrators.

Counseling Disputed

The group of students also had lots of ideas about counseling. Those from schools with required guidance classes criticized the system, while those without required counseling recommended it.

Not all black students should be directed by counselors toward trades courses, it was stated. Lower pupil-counselor ratios are needed, another pointed out.

Other suggestions emphasized by individual students were:

—Incorporating black history and black literature into regular school courses.

—Earlier identification of slow readers and intensive efforts to improve speed and comprehension before high school age.

—Upgrading economics courses.

—Expanding health courses to a full year with more emphasis on sex education.

—Delaying foreign language offerings until the ninth grade.

—Inserting speech training into required English courses.

—Obtaining more textbooks in paperback form so they are not so expensive to replace frequently and using textbooks only as supplementary material in social studies and humanities courses.

Omaha Woman Fatally Injured On Interstate 80

Omaha (UPI) — Maria S. Worley, 60, of Omaha, was fatally injured Tuesday night when her westbound auto crossed the median of Interstate 80 at 84th Street in Omaha.

Omaha police said her auto struck a guard rail and an eastbound car driven by Tory Ewing, 18, also of Omaha.

Ewing and two passengers in his car, Rufus Cotton, 25, and Freddie Coffey, 23, both Omaha residents, all were treated and released.

Mrs. Worley was taken to Douglas County Hospital in an unconscious state, was revived and then died a short time later.

Summary of Conditions

A broad low pressure area covers Nebraska and Iowa and will remain over the area through Thursday. The low pressure, along with a slight increase in the low and mid level of moisture, will cause variable cloudy skies through Thursday. Temperatures will be a little cooler over west and central Nebraska Wednesday and over both states Thursday.

Extended Forecasts

NEBRASKA: Temperatures for the five-day period, Thursday through Monday, will average 2 to 4 degrees above normal in the west and north and near normal in the southeast. Temperatures will be cooler at the beginning of the period with minor daily changes after that. Normal highs are in the upper 40s in the northwest to mid 50s in the southeast. Normal lows are in the mid 20s in the northwest to the low 30s in the southeast. No precipitation of consequence is expected.

KANSAS: For the five-day period, Thursday through Monday, temperatures will average near normal with cooler weather at the beginning of the period and minor changes after that. Normal highs are in the mid 50s in the northwest to around 60 in the southeast. Normal lows are in the mid 20s in the northwest to upper 30s in the southeast. Precipitation will average .25 to .50 of an inch in the southeast occurring mostly the first part of the period. Little or no precipitation is expected elsewhere in the state.

AUNT LULU . . . begins each day with Bible reading.

'Aunt Lulu' Reaches 100

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Adams — Her only blood relatives are nieces and nephews, but she's "Aunt Lulu" to this entire town.

Youngsters who don't even know Lulu Taylor's last name are well aware of her big day Wednesday. She becomes 100 — the town's first centenarian.

Any callers today will be disappointed, however, for a birthday party is planned in Lincoln by one of her "real" nephews, the Rev. Lawrence Williams. So many friends are expected at a reception this Sunday that the basement of the Methodist Church — biggest church in town — has been reserved.

"I'll be Aunt Lulu to everybody who shows up," said the alert oldster. "Even my own Baptist minister calls me that now."

The last survivor of a family of nine children, the Wisconsin native came to an Adams farm 74 years ago following two decades in Kansas. She moved to town in 1920 to help half-brother Joel Williams and his wife rear their nine.

Her side duties included a WWII stint of running her late brother's ice house — and handling cakes weighing half of her 100 pounds. It is hard work which she credits for her relatively good health today.

"I raised some of the best tomatoes of my life two summers ago and I'd still garden if I hadn't broken a hip," she said. "I need a walker to get around, but see well enough to read my Bible and paper every day."

Miss Taylor now resides with a grand niece, Mrs. Jim Weyers and husband. The world looks better than ever after 1½ years in a hospital and nursing home while the hip mended.

Said the niece:

"Aunt Lulu never complains about anything. But she doesn't always behave — sometimes she refuses to use her walker."

Homestead Exemption Delay Urged By County Officials, Farm Bureau

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation and the Association of County Officials Tuesday urged the Legislature's Revenue Committee to delay enactment of a homestead tax exemption law until a future legislative session.

"It should receive more study and research, particularly as it relates to needs and costs," Arnold Ruhnke, spokesman for the county officials, told the lawmakers.

Any action should await voter endorsement of similar exemptions for personal property, Farm Bureau legislative representative Richard Goodding said.

Undue Burden

A homestead exemption now would place "an undue burden on those who must own considerable property in order to earn a living," he said.

Seven bills which propose various means of implementing the constitutional amendment authorizing a homestead exemption were subjected to public hearing by the committee and held for later action.

Strong support for an immediate exemption was voiced by representatives of retired citizens, veterans, the Nebraska Democratic Coalition and several economic groups, including the Nebraska Homebuilders Association, and the Nebraska Lumber Merchants Association.

Omaha For LB932

The City of Omaha endorsed one particular bill, LB932, because it is the only one of the seven proposals to provide a specific means of replacing property tax revenue which would be lost at the local level.

LB932, sponsored by Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, proposes replacement of actual revenue lost by reimbursements from the state's general fund.

The National Farmers Organization also endorsed a homestead exemption based on need, as long as replacement revenue is provided.

The bills offer a variety of proposed exemptions, some applying a limited exemption to all homesteads in the state, others limiting exemptions to elderly homeowners or those with low incomes.

Some of the proposals offer larger exemptions for veterans.

Cost estimates on the proposals run as high as $10,345,000 a year.

Proponents generally supported reimbursement of lost revenue from state tax funds, although there was disagreement over whether the burden should be placed on the state income tax, the sales tax, or a combination of both.

Use Income Tax

Speaking for the Democratic Coalition, Eric Carlson proposed that the income tax carry the replacement load for a homestead exemption based on need.

The lumber merchants favored sales tax replacement.

Kearney County Assessor Carroll Weedlun told the committee that inaction in providing replacement revenue would "break the back of local government."

Weedlun suggested that the Legislature consider reinstituting the intangible property tax on foreign stock to provide replacement funds.

Most Support

The most support at Tuesday's hearing was voiced for LB932 which would exempt from taxation the first 20% of actual value of all homesteads, not exceeding $10,000.

An additional 10% exemption would be provided for World War I veterans.

Farm Safety Council Honors Six For Promotional Work

Six Nebraskans were honored Tuesday by the Nebraska Farm Safety Council for their activities in promoting safety.

Honored were Cyndi Orr, Lincoln; Mel Uphoff, Lexington; Clarence Newton, Lincoln; Hollis Francis, Norfolk; Capt. E. P. Schroeder, Lincoln; and Bob Haines, Humboldt.

Miss Orr won a trip to the National Safety Congress, Washington, D.C., for her work in 4-H safety projects.

Uphoff has sponsored a 4-H and FFA contest of safety on his radio program.

Newton has headed many recreation safety programs for the State Game Commission.

Francis served two terms as president of the Nebraska Farm Safety Council and has done many radio programs over WJAG, Norfolk, on safety.

Capt. Schroeder is in charge of safety instruction for the State Patrol.

Haines has developed a nationally recognized safety program in co-operation with industry at O. A. Cooper Co., Humboldt.

Officers re-elected to head the council for 1969 were: Dudley Osborn, Lincoln, president; John H. McLaughlin, Lincoln, vice president; and Rollin Schneider, Davey, secretary-treasurer.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

With only a few hours left for anyone else to throw his hat in the ring, the candidates for public office in the coming April primary election have grown to a sizable number. To be decided will be nominees for election to the Airport Authority, the Board of Education and the City Council.

The issues are the most clearcut, perhaps, in the race for the City Council. It is interesting to note the large number of candidates who apparently intend to make city planning and zoning a campaign theme.

Not all these candidates are against zoning and planning but many of them indicate displeasure with the policies of the past. That, of course, is a legitimate position to take and an important question to be settled by the voters.

★

Attitudes on zoning are about as broad as the human race itself. There are those who would all but abandon the practice of zoning and those who might be inclined to carry it to extremes. It is the former, however, who seem to be dominating the scene today.

There appears to be a widespread disenchantment in Lincoln with the zoning laws and a belief that these laws are contributing to a stagnation of the economy of the city. Given little thought in all this is the constructive influence zoning has had to date.

Also, there is some thought, small we would hope, that zoning is a matter of influence and payoffs. It is unfortunate that anyone would think this because there is no evidence whatsoever to support it.

In fact, if this were the case, there are many people with zoning probltms who would have none at all. Some of the larger financial interests in Lincoln have had problems with zoning and they have both the influence and the money to get what they want if those matters were the determining criteria.

★

In considering this issue, it is hoped that voters give some thought to the real meaning and purpose of zoning and planning. Without these things, a city would develop in a helter-skelter fashion, with no thought to anything other than the economics of the moment.

And this would be the economics of the moment for each and every individual, not the city collectively. It would mean every man's doing exactly as he pleased or as his business instincts directed him.

Consider for a moment what this would do to a city. It would be unprotected from any undesirable development of the residential areas of the city, city schools and such focal points as the State Capitol.

It would allow the development of land without regard to the overall welfare of the city. Thus, small, isolated plots could be developed requiring a heavy public investment in utilities, traffic control, etc. Tax funds for public programs could be spread so thin that bankruptcy or a skyrocketing of the tax rate would be inevitable.

★

Without good zoning, any street in the city would be subject to arterial type development and any arterial intersection would be subject to the highest type of commercial utilization. All control over street use would go out the window.

Staggering inefficiencies would prevail within the private sector of the economy in housing and retail merchandising with the abandonment of zoning. Every private investment would be subject to destruction through the threat of something bigger and better.

The ultimate consequences of this would be a constant undermining of the tax base and higher costs to citizens for housing and hard goods.

Intelligent voters will be slow to nominate those candidates who display a careless or openly hostile attitude toward zoning.

'Houseboating Is Great, Mr. President, But Haven't We Drifted Long Enough?'

Issues Before The Voters

Lincoln voters in May, due to City Council action this week, will have the opportunity to pass on bond issues totaling $2.35 million which would pay for two branch libraries, two fire stations and $1 million worth of storm sewer installation.

These bond issues, which will be voted on separately, barely scratch the surface of Lincoln's capital improvements backlog, but they are a start. We hope that although there is but a short time remaining in which to explain the improvements to the voters, people will realize that the projects needed vitally now cannot be adequately financed through the annual capital improvements budget.

The council was probably correct in choosing attractive as well as needed items as the basis for a vote on a small bond issue this coming city general election. The cost to the taxpayer will not be burdensome — about eight-tenths of a mill based on present-day valuations — in comparision to the benefits received. But the day is coming soon when a bigger bond issue will be in order if the city is to stop treading water in the capital improvements area.

The council used wisdom, in our judgment, in disposing of two other issues:

—In offering to voters the chance to repeal the City Charter provision that the mayor's salary be higher than the salary of any department head. The salary for a political office should not be related to what it takes to retain a skilled technician, specialist or professional administrator. We don't feel that approval of the amendment would downgrade the prestige of the mayor's office.

—In holding off on a charter change that would give the City Power Advisory Board operational and administrative control of the Lincoln Electric System. A majority of council members agreed with the charter revision committee, which said it had not had enough time in which to study the proposal to offer a recommendation. Any change that would further fragment city government needs careful consideration.

Huge Federal Dollar Drain

A lot of people were alarmed when a budget officer of the last Washington administration reported on a small group of million-dollar-a-year-income individuals who paid no federal income taxes. Unfortunately, that is only a drop in the bucket.

Not many people pay no income tax at all but a huge number of them pay far less than they would if taxed on their total earnings. You can see how in a Wall Street Journal report which tells of a new plan in big business and industry to let top executives pick their own package of salary bonus, stock, insurance and other benefits. The idea is to take your remuneration in ways which avoid paying income tax on it.

A publishing firm sells a publication which tells business and industry how to pay its top executives while not adding to their personal tax liability. Without paying any taxes on it, an executive can enjoy paid life insurance for himself and his family, free vacations, annual medical expense for himself and his whole family, no-interest loans up to even $50,000, scholarships for the education of his family and a host of other "fringe" benefits which mean money in his pocket but no tax payments to Uncle Sam.

If the American people could see totaled up the fantastic sums paid out in the high-income groups for which no taxes are paid, they would really be incensed. This total would make the report on millionaires look like peanuts.

But the American people will never see it and it is highly doubtful that Congress will change the situation much. The poor fellow in the middle and lower income groups will simply continue getting it in the neck.

Man's Failures On Earth

WASHINGTON — One guest who received deferential attention at the annual Gridiron Club dinner was Frank Borman, the astronaut who captained the recent circumnavigation of the moon. Col. Borman, despite having led one of man's greatest feats of science and exploration, by no means resembled Superman; if anything, senators, cabinet officers, justices and generals, jostling each other to shake his hand, found him as unexceptional as any other earnest young fellow trying to live and get his work done.

Since the Christmas-time triumph of Borman, Lovell and Anders has now been followed spectacularly by that of Apollo 9, manned by much the same sort of men, it may be useful to recall that even so remarkable a venture as the conquest of space is, after all, the work of human beings — and not necessarily the most extraordinary of the breed.

No spaceman, for example, has as yet produced any memorable words — either in action or in retrospect — and both the men who fly the missions and those who manage them from earth appear to be first-class technicians, planners, mathematicians, artisans, administrators, and the like, largely content to leave the poetry of the thing to others. They are, in short, much the kind of men who man and manage any number of other highly technological, complex, widespread, often dangerous enterprises in the late Twentieth Century.

This gives rise to some questions not easily answered. One of these is why it is that men who can organize themselves and their knowledge and resources to get to the moon apparently cannot do a great many other things of equal worth and greater urgency.

In fact, the vision, skill, courage and intelligence that have gone into the space program ought to shame mankind — and Americans in particular. Because if men can do what the astronauts and their earthbound colleagues — human beings all — have done, why cannot we build the houses we need? Why must our cities be choked in traffic and the polluted air it produces?

Why are our lakes and rivers so fouled by mankind that, as Bob Kennedy once said, if you fall in, you don't drown, you dissolve? Why is virtually every major city without clean, safe and comfortable public transportation? Why are our airways and airports overcrowded to the point of scandal? Why does every effort to remove slums and rebuild cities bog down in red tape and red ink?

When a nation can train and organize the skilled manpower needed to launch and recover Apollo, why can't it train and employ the unskilled manpower standing hopeless and embittered on the ghetto streets? Why are the transient workers on both coasts, Indians in the West, blacks in the South and unfortunates in every state going hungry in the richest nation in the world? Is it not obscene for a nation that conquered polio to permit pellagra and rickets?

To raise such questions is not necessarily to suggest that the space program should be halted and its resources diverted to other purposes. When that question was discussed after the moon flight, David P. Bloch of the University of Texas wrote in response:

"This may be an appropriate occasion to take an olympian view of ourselves. Life is one of the properties of matter. Its evolution has given rise to consciousness. Someone once said that man is the mind by which the universe contemplates itself. Now he is on the threshhold of space. Some day it will matter little to what extent our individual or collective interests in space were motivated by curiosity, adventure (not vicarious), acquisitiveness, quest for security, competitiveness, or what have you. What WILL matter will be the consequences, and few of us would take seriously any guess as to what they would be even two generations from now. For all we know, a very practical result of man's colonization of space may be his survival.

"Our reaching out into space is akin to our first clutch at a tool, or to the poor fish's straining to be an amphibian, or to the development of the first nervous system. In its portent, it is of a different order of magnitude than Columbus' discovery. Except for some immediate practical considerations, our reasons for reaching out are inconsequential."

That may be the only answer possible, not just to the question of the space program, but to the riddle of man's failures on earth. Perhaps that mind by which the universe contemplates itself does not yet truly see its own works; but perhaps, too, the consciousness that distinguishes man is entering a further evolution, a new flowering beyond the earth, perhaps.

The People's Wishes

Lincoln, Neb.

Many drivers approve of the inspection of automobiles. But many wonder why they should pay to have their cars inspected when they are very likely to meet a drunken driver on the wrong side of almost any road on which they drive.

On March 13 we read that the voting age had been lowered to 20 years, which means that a 20-year-old may buy and drink liquor lawfully. That evening hundreds of young people used their new privilege, after which they made public highways one long danger to drive upon.

We have been anxiously watching the urban renewal law, LB190. Organizations in both Omaha and Lincoln have sent letters to every senator, begging them to defeat the bill because the people do not want it to become law. In 1962 voters of Lincoln defeated urban renewal by a large and impressive majority. But we have the proposition before us again and now the legislators have amended the bill to put it over us without a vote of the people.

Now citizens are seeing legislators who do not heed the wishes of the people who elected them. The most we see are more taxes, double salaries for law-makers, more liquor, more accidents, and a law which the people defeated once put over us without our consent.

LB7

Lincoln, Neb.

The Nebraska State Conference of the American Association of University Professors, representing approximately 700 teachers in institutions of higher education in the state, has gone on record as opposing the passage of LB7, which calls for an elected Educational Television Commission.

The AAUP believes that elective posts would destroy the present desirable balance of educated representation on the board. Because it is difficult for the voter to inform himself on the qualifications of a large number of candidates for elective office, such elective posts may become the target of special interest groups.

LB7 is aimed directly at the airing of allegedly controversial material. As such, it strikes at the diversity of programming essential in a society devoted to free inquiry and access to a wide range of ideas. Senator Carpenter made this motive quite clear in the undying debate on the floor of the Legislature Monday, linking ETV by implication to the "moral mess" in the United States.

Under the present system, qualified educational leaders who do not have the time or the financial resources to campaign for office can accept an appointment to the board. In the words of the AAUP's resolution: "The result has been a statewide television system that is a model for the whole country. It would be unfortunate to tamper with a working arrangement that has produced such excellent results."

LAWRENCE POSTON III
Secretary, Neb. State Conference, AAUP

No Specifics

Lincoln, Neb.

The City Council has been using some mighty high-toned language lately. I notice that they endorse the "concept of open housing" but not a specific bill before the Legislature. Unless my memory fails me, not too long ago they endorsed the "concept of exercise for jail prisoners" but not any specific proposal.

I wouldn't be too surprised if the voters in the coming elections decided to follow suit. They may decide to endorse the "concept of salary raises for councilmen" but nothing specific, of course.

ALMOST AMUSED

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

The Rise And Decline Of President's Appeal

NEW YORK—After the cataclysmic warnings of the campaigners, we are so amazed to find that the presidential winner — whoever he is — can feed himself and tie his own shoes that we all are heartened.

And, while we are in this bemused state, the first polls come in. And they always show we like him a lot better than we elected him by. For about three months he's a good ol' boy. Then the time comes when he has to make a decision or do something, and that's when the fun begins.

Remember how Franklin D. Roosevelt's popularity at first was way up in the 80 per cent bracket, and then the "THAT MAN in the White House" talk started?

And, when he ran for his fourth term, remember the concern for his health and how a vote for him was "really a vote for Truman" and how awful that would be?

And when it happened, there was Harry, almost in the 90s in the polls. His honeymoon ended with his first message to Congress and from then on he not only "gave 'em hell," he caught it, too.

To a lot of the public, he was the "bewildered little man," with a great fondness for earthy talk, bourbon and old cronies. Then he was about to be derricked by Thomas E. Dewey and he fought it off singlehandedly, and headlines resurrected him as a "master politician."

Within weeks he was a "'dishonest nincompoop," and the second honeymoon didn't survive the Korean War.

☆ ☆ ☆

After Dwight D. Eisenhower came in, he ran almost 70 per cent. But the first robin of spring had barely made it to Washington before he was upsetting folks by trying to run the country "the way he ran the Army."

Those jokes again: "Wouldn't it be awful if Ike died and Nixon became president?" And: "It would be worse if Sherman Adams died and Ike became president."

Then there was John F. Kennedy, all youthful glory and glamour, who hit the 80 per cent popularity mark during his honeymoon. Pundits called him as "well-prepared, probably better than any man in history, to run the government."

Two months late he was "immature and ill-prepared" and the criticism was so rough that for a while certain newspapers were even banned from the White House front porch.

During all this he was getting nowhere with Congress and was trying to remedy deep political trouble when the tragic end came.

Suddenly Lyndon B. Johnson was president and there he was in the 80s, ramming legislation through like a computer and getting re-elected by more votes than anyone in history.

Then Vietnam sandbagged the Great Society and things got so bad he turned in his suit to quiet the uproar and let the country get on with its business.

And now here is Nixon, the wouldn't - it - be - terrific-if" fellow, and he IS president, and his popularity is in the 60 per cent range.

So when it comes, along about now, don't be alarmed. Whoever has been elected is probably not as good as you thought for the first 60-to-90 days — and better than you thought from there on.

History has already taken Roosevelt and Truman out of their doghouses; Eisenhower showed up No. 1 on a most admired poll; Kennedy is enshrined; and Johnson is biting his nails in Johnson City where, if it runs true to course, history will bail him out, too.

You know, it's really not an easy job.

Reports Of Adverse Effects From 'Pill' Mount; British First To Publish Condemning Statistics

WASHINGTON — Come May, the birth control pill will have been on the market for nine years. Yet the Food and Drug Administration is unable to say how many adverse reactions the pill has caused during this period or how many deaths have been associated with its use.

The matter is so serious that two congressional committees have been quietly investigating reports that at least ten per cent of all adverse reaction reports are fatalities and that one-third of the recent reports on one specific pill involve death. But no one can say with any certainty how high the death rate really is.

This column has learned that since October, 1968, there are approximately 9,000 adverse reports covering the years 1965 and 1966 which have yet to be included in the overall total. These reports are still piled high in Room 602-C at the Food and Drug Administration.

Meanwhile, an estimated 7,000,000 American women are using the pill. It works; but apparently in more ways than one.

So serious are the side effects reported by the British in April of last year that the Food and Drug Administration ordered American manufacturers to relabel, warning that English studies estimate "There is a 7- to 10-fold increase in mortality and morbidity due to thromboembolic (clotting in the blood vessels) diseases in women taking oral contraceptives . . . Statistical valuation indicated that the difference observed between users and non-users were highly significant."

Furthermore, the British admitted their studies "very likely" under-reported the true situation by about 40 per cent. This under-report was despite a national health service spanning cradle to grave.

☆ ☆ ☆

This column has now learned, from a medical authority in a position to know, that independent American studies to be published this spring "fully confirm" the British studies.

Besides death and permanent disablement, the pill can cause a number of side effects ranging from rashes, headaches, darkening skin, hair loss, and breast enlargement, to those requiring hospitalization such as blood clots in the lungs or brain, arteriosclerosis, and cancer.

It seems incredible, therefore, that if the pill is not safe, we should have to wait until the British tell us so.

So far the pill has led a charmed life. The first pill, called "Enovid," was passed by FDA on the basis that 132 women had received it continuously for a year or more. Puerto Rican studies were often quoted in the lay press as establishing its safety, but those studies were directed primarily to its efficacy in preventing conception.

FDA did receive and continues to receive adverse pill reaction reports, but FDA record-keeping is so chaotic that advisory committtes claim it is impossible to make conclusive judgments.

☆ ☆ ☆

FDA has now acknowledged to interested congressmen that between January, 1966, to Dec. 1, 1968, it had found reports of 1,023 "serious and fatal" cases, of which 115 involved death and 908 were serious. Blood clots accounted for 84 of the deaths and 459 of the "serious" reactions, among which were listed cancer and hepatitis.

By no means were these a total of all adverse reactions reported, but only those FDA considered "serious and fatal," such as strokes.

An FDA spokesman emphasized "that they had only touched the tip of an iceberg" and that the FDA had no way of obtaining full reports of adverse reactions. True, the drug companies are required to report, but not the attending physician. And there is always the question as to the ultimate cause of death in the individual case.

Parking Lot Rules OKd By County

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday adopted tentative parking regulations for the county's hard-surfaced parking area south of the new County-City Building, and also announced plans to blacktop the square block further south.

The proposal as presented by Commissioner William Grossman called for an annual fee charge for parking space and patrolling the area so that cars not properly registered may be towed away at owner's expense.

The plan provides space for each county official and one deputy for each department, local attorneys, news media, county employes and the public.

Grossman's proposal, which the board indicated might be altered somewhat, suggests an annual fee of $5 for county officials and deputies, $3 for news media, $3 for attorneys and $5 for temporary city parking until it can build a parking lot at the north end of the building where the present courthouse stands. No fee is planned for county employes, but stickers will be issued to them.

City-County Planning Director Douglas Brogden suggested some sort of beautification for the lots adjacent to the new building.

He said that it might result in loss of a few parking spaces, but would add to the "attractiveness" of the environs.

Grossman indicated that something would be worked out with the net loss in parking space not being significant.

County Engineer Walter Hoppe estimated blacktopping the square block between 9th and 19th and G and H would cost about $8,500. The county is presently using the rocked lot for employe parking.

County Register Of Deeds Moving

The county offices of the clerk and treasurer will remain closed Thursday and Friday and that of the register of deeds will close Friday during the move from the old courthouse to the new County-City Building.

All three offices expect to be in full operation in their new quarters by Monday.

Door-To-Door Sale Bill Held

By United Press International

The Legislature's Banking Committee was asked Tuesday to approve a consumer protection law whose sponsor said would "protect the little man at the door."

Omaha Sen. Henry F. Pedersen sponsored the bill, which would say that any contract between a door-to-door salesman and a person the salesman contacted could be cancelled by the buyer within three business days.

The bill also would require that any time sales contract could not be turned over to another agency unless the person signing the contract agreed to it.

The committee held the bill to consider it along with two similar bills which have been assigned to the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee.

Pedersen said he introduced his bill to "protect the little man at the door" from unscrupulous and high pressure door-to-door salesmen.

"If your goods won't stand up for three days then you don't have a product," he said.

Pedersen said the bill would, contrary to what its opponents said, "improve the image of door-to-door salesmen by assuring the public that what they are selling will stand up when they are gone."

Omaha attorney Patrick Green told the committee "there is something wrong with not letting people think about decisions they are making." He said the bill would insure that people do "have time to think about their decisions."

The bill was opposed by several representatives of industries who deal in door-to-door selling.

Earl Mance of West Bend, Wis., representing the West Bend Co., said he opposed the "discriminatory nature of this bill. It says all direct sellers are dishonest."

County Judge Must Be Lawyer Under New Bill

No person could become a county judge in Nebraska beginning in 1972 unless he were an attorney in good standing under terms of a bill introduced in the Legislature Tuesday.

The measure, LB1348, came from the Judiciary Committee.

Another new bill, LB1347, sponsored by the Government Committee, permits regional or joint planning commissions to have as many members as the component political subdivisions may choose.

Gramann To Speak

Henry Gramann Jr., president of the Nebraska Bankers Association and executive vice president of the Adams State Bank, will be one of the main speakers at a Nebraska Bankers Association bank management seminar Wednesday and Thursday at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Jop Placements Up

During February there were 3,651 job placements made by the Nebraska Division of Employment or about 12% more than were made in February 1968.

In a monthly division report, Labor Commissioner Thomas Doyle said that all industries showed gains in placements with the exception of construction and trade. He said severe weather conditions restricted and delayed construction activity more than usual.

Placement activity was up in nondurable manufacturing — which increased 23% from a year ago — with strong gains in Norfolk and Fremont.

There was a significant increase of placements in apparel industries in Lincoln and Nebraska City.

Placements in private households, which largely included snow shoveling, more than doubled from February 1968. Service, with the exception of private household, increased 33%.

Other gains were in finance, insurance and real estate — up 11% from last year — and government, which was up 16%.

There were 5,024 new applications for work made in February, about 27% less than a year ago. In the active file of persons seeking jobs, there was a decrease of about 9% compared with 1968.

FLUORIDE ION— A DEADLY DESTROYER

For many years research scientists have proved that the fluoride ion is a powerful deadly cumulative enzyme poison or inhibitor in all animals and plant life.

This means that the fluoride ion is a powerful destroyer of living processes in every tissue including teeth, even in dilutions of one to 60 million. It acts slowly and silently over the years of time and it affects everyone of all ages, some seriously and some very little.

In this action, the powerful fluoride ion forms an insoluble compound with essential elements, especially magnesium, which are the vital elements in the chemical actions in enzymes, thus limiting, crippling or destroying the living processes in these vital enzymes and cells.

It is impossible to have this powerful enzyme poison taken into he body daily without it being a cause or a causative factor in almost every disease, by weakening or destroying the vital chemicals reaction in every vital enzyme and cell. The more vital the organ, the more serious the damage.

By this action the fluoride ion is the cause or a causative factor in the most serious diseases such as mental and physical defects in babies — ulser, cancer, heart, kidney, liver, mental and nervous diseases in adults.

The most serious effect is on brain and nerve tissue, as on the cells in the embryo which develop into the brain and nervous system. There is much evidence that the fluoride is a cause or a causative factor in mongolism and mental retardation in the new born, as well as mental and nervous diseases in adults.

The damage flom the fluoride ion is one of our most common and serious health problems. Everyone is getting too much now. (Tea and coffee 15 to 25 PPM, increasing amounts in food from commercial fertilizers and insecticides, fluorides in air pollution from industrial combustion and automobile exhaust and increasing amounts used in drugs and tooth paste).

The fluoride ion destroys the living, nourishing processes in teeth.

In the enamel, the hydroxyapatite is the living, nourishing structure. When the fluoride ion comes in, it replaces the hydroxyl, forming the fluoroapatite. The fluoroapatite, instead of being a living, nourishing substance, is a non-living, inert, dead substance. By this action, the fluoride ion destroys the living proceses in the enamel, slowly and gradually over years of time. In addition to this, the fluoride ion by forming insoluble calcium fluoride, causes calcific plugs in the pulp of the tooth gradually destroying the circulation. (There is only one thing that will make strong healthy LIVING teeth and that is proper food grown with natural fertilizer and without poisonous insecticides, and much of it eaten raw.) (Cooking destroys many vital elements.)

Promoters of fluoridation have never produced any scientific proof that the fluoride ion is not harmful.

For many years medical and dental societies have endorsed fluoridation but have never produced any proof that the fluoride ion is not harmful. They continue to repeat the line put out by bureaucrats in Washington that fluoridation is safe and you have to take their word for it.

Fluoridation of the public water supply is a destroyer of constitutional and civil rights. When the "control establishment" can force people to drink fluoridated water, they have destroyed all of your constitutional and civil rights.

Fluoridation has been a fraud and a crime of the worst kind from the beginning. Proof of this is now forced out into the open. In an injunction suit in Illinois against compulsory fluoridation, attorneys for the Illinois medical and dental societies were subpeonaed to bring into court proof of statements made by spokesmen of the medical and dental societies that they had done extensive scientific research and found fluoridation not harmful. When these attorneys were asked to produce this evidence in court they admitted THEY HAD NONE. Spokesmen for the medical and dental societies had been powerful in influencing the legislature to pass compulsory fluoridation on statements that they had done extensive scientific research and found fluoridation harmless, when in fact, they were simply using the usual propaganda put out by the "traveling salesmen" of fluoridation from Washington.

This same deception and fraud has been going on in every state with great vigor by those "control" enthusiasts from Washington.

Promotion of fluoridation began at a meeting of the State Dental Directors in Washington in 1951. Even against all of the evidence of the harmful effect of fluorides, leaders of this meeting ordered the dental directors to promote fluoridation. Since that time there has been a high powered campaign, using many millions of your tax dollars in this promotion.

It is the obligation of the public water supplier to furnish water which is wholesame and not harmful to any customer.

The pharmacy laws in many states prohibit giving fluorides and similar poisons to humans without a doctor's prescription filled by a registered pharmacist. Fluorides put into the public water supply flagrantly violates this law. In Nebraska it is unlawful even to give fluorides to anyone under 18 years of age even on prescription.

Agriculture laws in many states forbid the use of fluorides in anything for the consumption of farm animals because of the harmful effect on these animals, especially abortion. Fluoridation also violates this law.

We urge our legislature to take action to protect our people.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Much ado about nothing with Brownie Troop 1810. That is OK with these young crumpets. Seven years is the age. At that time of life, the more nothing, the more ado.

The Brownie Leader took off early this a.m. for meetings — we have more meetings than the Board of U.S. Steel.

"There's bread in the box," she said, "and I don't know what there is for sandwiches, but there's always peanut butter."

When the Brownies are abroad, it's every man for himself.

☆ ☆ ☆

Brownies are little chicks growing up to be Girl Scouts. They go to museums and, I imagine, learn useful crafts. Maybe how to boil an egg.

Our household Brownie is learning to be kind to bugs.

"Look," she said pushing a squirmy potato bug under my nose.

I said: "Never put bugs under my nose before I've had my coffee."

"It's nice," she said. "Im going to keep it and feed it."

"Not in this house, you won't," I said.

"They're being kind to bugs," said the Brownie Leader. (The display hadn't been under her nose.)

I said: "Teach them to be kind to fathers. Fathers who are bugged."

☆ ☆ ☆

Today's meeting is with Brownie mothers. The Brownie Leader will address them on Brownie plans for the year.

She said: "Shall I wear the new blue knit? Or the white one with the boots?

I said: Why don't you wear the Brownie Leader uniform?"

"Are you mad?" she said. "Everybody will be dressed."

I said: "How will they know you're the Leader?"

"I'll tell them," she said. "Do you think coffee and cookies are enough?"

"Why don't you turn them on with Bloody Marys?" I said. "Then ask for volunteers before they sober up."

"Really!" she said. "This is at the school."

I said: "Just trying to be helpful."

☆ ☆ ☆

The Brownies wear khaki uniforms. Knee sox and Brownie caps. When they say the Brownie Promise they hold up their hands with two fingers extended.

When the Brownie Leader can't stand the noise any longer or she'll get a migraine headache, she holds up her extended hand. She calls for The Brownie Silence.

All the Brownies must hold up their hands. And shut up!

This week the Brownies will tour Chinatown in honor of Chinese New Year. The Year of the Rooster. They are fortunate cookies.

"Could you let me have $10 for the Chinatown tour?" asked the Brownie Leader.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Brownie Leader has told the Brownies to make Troop 1810 the best troop in the country.

"Do you think I'm pushing them too hard?" she asked.

That's because there was a piece in Reader's Digest about not making kids live up to too much expectations. (Last month we had to send for a book, "How To Make Your Child Develop Faster Than Other Children." It keeps a man on his toes to follow the trend.)

I said: "Sock it to them. Tell them to shape up or ship out."

Nobody worried about pushing me when I was a Boy Scout. "What's this 'F' on your report card?" said grandma. "I've a notion to take a stick to you."

☆ ☆ ☆

"I'll stop by the bakery and get cookies," the Brownie Leader decided. "I haven't time to look in the refrigerator. But if we are out of bread, you can go out to lunch.

"I had to borrow some money off the dresser," she shouted from the garage. "But I'll pay it back."

"Come back with my money," I cried. "Where did you hide the gin?"

SAFEGUARDING YOUR TEEN-AGER AGAINST DRUGS . . .

Parents Worried About Drugs Told To Keep Cool, Get Facts

(Editor's Note: This is seventh in a series of a prize-winning science writer who provides parents with background on the narcotics and drug situation and suggests ways for them to help guard their children against its ill effects.)

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press
Science Writer

In offering specific advice and tips to parents concerned with drug use and abuse, specialists in a variety of fields stress five principal approaches:

Keep your cool.

Listen to what your children or young people are really saying.

Get the facts about drugs, and share them with youngsters.

In discipline, be firm but fair.

Set good parental examples.

"Too many parents are far more alarmed about drugs than they need to be," says Dr. Kenneth Keniston, Yale psychologist.

Society's Reaction

Society's reaction to student drug use is "a little hysterical," adds Dr. Richard H. Moy, director of the Health Service at the University of Chicago.

Outraged or panicked, a few parents have even had their own teen-age youngsters arrested for using marijuana once or a few times, says John Finlator, associate director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Knowing how parents may react, youngsters sometimes "like to put them on, as by writing 'Marijuana' on a school book cover, or by saying they plan to smoke pot," he adds.

Some, perhaps many, parents are convinced that one experiment with marijuana is a sure step into deep trouble.

False Conception

But the idea that "if you try marijuana once, you are sure to go on to heroin, or become an acid-head or a pot-head, is simply not true," says Dr. Malcolm B. Bowers Jr., Yale University psychiatrist who has long studied drug problems. Nor is it true that a single shot of heroin necessarily leads to a life on narcotics.

Youngsters err, however, if they argue that marijuana never leads anyone to stronger drugs. "I went on a weekend that lasted four years," one young man remarks.

Some worried parents are monitoring or bugging their teenagers' telephone conversations, spying to learn if drugs are being mentioned or used. They run enormous risk that the youngsters will hate their parents if they ever learn they are being spied upon, Finlator says.

Numerous parents are convinced the best way of steering children away from drugs is "to scare the hell out of them," as one father puts it.

Most authorities do not agree with him.

Listening to what children and youths have to say, and discussing matters with them, build bridges to understanding and respect between children and parents.

Parents must set standards and exert controls over children.

Dr. Keniston remarks: "Too many parents, when one talks about the importance of standards, interpret this as an excuse not to have to listen to what their children are trying to tell them. They are so busy setting standards and defining limits that they never hear what their children are saying."

Sound Rules

Firm, and well-understood rules are needed, but on special occasions it's possible they should be modified through discussion and mutual agreement.

"We must rear children in an atmosphere of love and understanding, talk with them, communicate with them," Finlator says. "Listen to and encourage them."

"As I see the problem," he elaborates, "it is not enough to say to children: 'I love you.' We must let them know that no matter what happens, they can call on us when they get into any trouble.

"But in too many affluent families, the last people that youngsters in trouble turn to are the parents. They've had some experience already, or fear the reaction, that if they do have trouble, the parents will scream at them, 'you are ruining ME.' Many parents who really care about their children are not transmitting the fact that they do care."

"Drugs should be viewed as one factor, considered in the same class as other forms of 'acting out' behavior — disrespect for property, acting on impulse, accident proneness, delinquency — and not as the central problem," says Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth of Harvard.

"If drug taking were not related to current social conditions and individuals' reactions to them, it would be much easier to deal with," Dr. Farnsworth says. "But the issues are complex; that is, drug taking MEANS something."

Reduced Marijuana Penalty Advanced

By ROBERT BERG
United Press International

A bill drastically reducing the penalty for a first offense of possession of a small amount of marijuana received unanimous first round approval from the Unicameral Tuesday.

The bill would impose a penalty of seven days in the county jail for anyone convicted the first time of possession of less than 25 marijuana cigarettes or one-half pound of marijuana. Persons serving the seven-day sentences would be required to be kept in separate quarters from other prisoners.

Possession of a greater amount of marijuana or conviction on a second offense would remain a felony punishable by one to five years in the penitentiary.

The bill, LB2, is sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who said it was intended to make sure the law was enforced.

"During the past years the penalty of a felony was so great the courts and law enforcement officials have been reluctant to impose it," he said. "I think this bill will make them much more willing to enforce the law."

Fine Not Possible

Carpenter said he removed the possibility of a fine for the first offense because "I don't want the possibility of someone with money being able to buy his way out of this with a fine."

He said the provision for keeping persons convicted of possession away from other inmates of the county jail was intended to protect them.

"To put them in a jail without separating them would do a great deal of harm to them," he said.

An amendment added to the bill would require persons serving the seven-day sentence or who were put on probation from the sentence to take a course on the effects of the misuse of drugs.

They also would be required to take medical treatment for any effects the drugs might have had on them.

Emergency Clause

An emergency clause was added to the bill, meaning the bill would become effective the moment the governor signed it rather than waiting until 90 days after the Legislature adjourns.

The bill's penalty clause would be retroactive to any cases now pending in the courts.

Carpenter said he hoped the bill could be passed as soon as possible because "there are some cases pending in the courts that this will affect. We could save some hardships with quick action."

Other Bills Ok'd

Eight other bills were given first round approval by the lawmakers Tuesday, including one to make it illegal to leave a child aged 6 or under unattended in a motor vehicle for more than 15 minutes.

The bill, LB299, was sponsored by Sen. Don Elrod of Grand Island, who said it was aimed at people who "leave their kids in a car one, two or three hours and never look after them."

Another bill, LB258, would require that a statement taken from any person involved in a civil suit be given to that person if he requests a copy of the statement within 20 days of the time it was taken.

Also given initial approval were measures to allow the Educational Television Commission to spend money to promote its programs and to allow Class III school boards to expand from six to nine members.

Rules For Divided Highways OK'd

By Associated Press

Rules of the road for driving on highways divided by medians will be written into law under a bill passed and sent to the governor by Nebraska's Legislature Tuesday.

The measure prohibits vehicles from driving over or within the medial except through specifically designated openings.

Vehicles may not make "U" turns or semicircular turns at any point on the highway not specifically designated for such a maneuver. And ordinary vehicles are prohibited from using entrances or crossovers specifically marked for use by emergency vehicles only.

The bill earned 43-3 approval on final reading, with Sens. Herbert Duis of Gothenburg, Leslie Robinson of Kearney and Ramey Whitney of Chappell casting the opposition votes.

Seven other bills were passed Tuesday. The list (E-emergency clause):

LB60 (Carpenter) — Authorizing Nebraska Educational Television Commission to acquire a specific piece of property in Morrill County by eminent domain. 43-1.

LB77 (Clark) — Authorizing municipalities to make revisions in zoning plans without re-enacting the entire zoning plan. (E) 46-0.

LB335 (Hasebroock, Swanson) — Making it a misdemeanor to falsely report the existence of an emergency jeopardizing life or property to any law enforcement official, fire department, hospital, ambulance company or other person engaged in providing emergency medical services, 45-0.

LB431 (Kokes, Wallwey) — Providing a method for dividing rural and suburban fire protection districts into two or more districts. (E). 46-0.

LB450 (Swanson, Holmquist) — Broadening investments which public power districts are permitted to make. (E). 46-0.

LB624 (Stull) — Authorizing use of state school lands for solid waste disposal areas. 45-1.

LB631 (Danner) — Correcting law to reflect that State Department of Roads now is headquartered outside the State Capitol. (E). 45-0.

LB651 (Stull) — Establishing rules of the road for highway divided by a median. 43-3.

Bill To Remove Re-Examination Rule Withdrawn

A bill to remove the mandatory re-examination provision for drivers licenses from Nebraska law was withdrawn from legislative consideration by its sponsor Tuesday.

State Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha said he was withdrawing the bill because "I haven't been able to get any support for it."

The law, passed in 1967, requires that every person holding a drivers license be re-examined every four years when he renews the license.

Urban Renewal Limit Is Retained

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Tuesday rejected an effort to open the way for Omaha to launch more than one limited urban renewal project, then sent major urban renewal legislation on its way to final reading.

Sen. Edward Danner unsuccessfully sought to remove from the bill an amendment which forbids authorization of any additional project until work on a specified South Omaha project is completed.

Danner was turned down on an 8-27 vote.

The restriction, he said, is "unfair and unjust" to other sections of the city. Danner represents the Near North Side.

The bill, LB190, directs the Omaha City Council to launch a limited project in South Omaha unless it chooses to veto the directive within 15 days.

Lincoln Project

Lincoln would also be authorized to undertake a limited urban renewal project without a vote of the people.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, sponsor of the bill, objected to Danner's attempt to remove the single project restriction, contending that an open-end authorization would kill the bill.

If the Near North Side decides that it wants to participate in urban renewal, Carpenter said, he will present legislation at the next session to amend the law to permit it.

The South Omaha pilot project is designed "to demonstrate to North Omaha and other sections what urban renewal can do," he said.

"If the North Side wants it, we can act in two years."

'Hidden Motives'

Danner said the South Omaha restriction may have "some hidden motives (which are) discriminatory."

As to the question of whether federal authorities would approve funds for use in South Omaha, rather than North Omaha, Carpenter suggested that Nebraska's Republican leaders in Washington should be able to secure such approval from the Nixon administration.

"If we can't get this thing done, we ought to get a new congressional delegation," he said.

Omaha would have urban renewal projects underway now if the City Council had the nerve to authorize them, Sen. Henry Pedersen Jr. said. Pedersen characterized the council as "the gutless seven."

Attempt To Kill Ban On Discount Liquor Sales Fails

A move to kill on select file a bill prohibiting discount liquor sales to retailers fell short on a 9-30 vote in the Legisature Tuesday.

The kill motion came from Sen. Theodore Wenzlaff of Sutton who said, "I just want to ask if the Legislature wants to support price-fixing."

Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt said price-fixing in liquor sales might lead to the same in agriculture.

The bill, LB151, sponsored by Sen. Terry Carpenter, does not run afoul of the constitution, an attorney general's opinion has held.

The measure was advanced on a voice vote and should show up next for final reading.

Legislative Bills Introduced

By Associated Press

Bills introduced in the Legislature Tuesday:

LB1347 (Government Committee)—Allowing that only attorneys who have been sions or public corporations to determine how many members shall be included on regional or joint planning commission.

LB1348 (Judiciary Committee)—Requiring that anly ottorneys who have been admitted to the bar may become county judges after 1972.

What price would you rather pay for a color TV?...

$549 or $667?

"Did you know buying a $549 color television set means 24 monthly payments of $26.54 each on typical installment terms? So we put that $26.54 monthly in our State Federal savings account. In the same amount of time, we had enough money to buy the TV set PLUS $118.76* cash left in savings! Multiply this kind of savings thru the years on all the things you buy and you can see why the fellow who saves for what he wants ends up with something!"

HERE'S HOW FOUR SAVINGS DOLLARS DO THE WORK OF FIVE CREDIT DOLLARS

*You will pay about $5 monthly for every $100 worth of merchandise bought on average 24-month installment terms. Yet, you can save only $4 monthly at State Federal and have over $100 in the same length of time!

Statewide Achievement Test Proposal Advances

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

An amended bill permitting the State Board of Education to institute statewide achievement tests for public school students was advanced Tuesday by the Legislature's Education Committee.

However, the committee rejected a proposal that such a testing program be used as a basis for state accreditation of school systems.

Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell, cosponsor of LB959, said the testing program "would not really be a test for students so much as a test of teachers."

'More Meaningful'

S. H. Brauer Jr., executive secretary of the Nebraska School Improvement Association, suggested accreditation through a student testing program "would be a more meaningful measure of quality education" than the criteria now used.

However, opposition to the measure came from the State Accreditation Committee and several school superintendents.

Spokesmen said the statewide tests would lead to statewide textbooks and curriculums and ultimately to "loss of local control over schools."

John Lynch, speaking for the Accreditation Committee, said other states which aopted such achievement testing programs later abandoned them.

"Some teachers geared instruction to the tests rather than textbooks, and the statewide testing program was abandoned," he said.

Loan Bill Held

The committee held for study LB1094, which would authorize state boards of higher education to make or guarantee long-term, low-interest loans for Nebraska resident students.

The measure, introduced by Sen. John Knight of Lincoln, would implement a constitutional amendment approved by voters last November.

The bill would permit commercial lending institutions making student loans to be compensated for administrative costs.

Also amended and advanced was LB251, establishing the date for annual meetings of Class I and Class II school districts.

Douglas Youth Commission Plan Axed

A bill establishing a metropolitan county commission on youth for Douglas County was among four bills axed by the Legislature's Judiciary Committee Tuesday.

The commission would have included mainly adults with some teenagers to investigate and provide recommendations on youth problems to local governing bodies.

On behalf of the bill, the Rev. E. T. Streeter, an Omaha Board of Education member, said the commission might ease future racial tensions in the city.

"We should start doing things before moments of conflict and turmoil and try to blot out some of the things that have happened in the past," he said.

Also sidelined was the bill attaching the penalty clause to 1967 legislation requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets.

The defeat of the bill, LB745, means the helmet requirement will remain ineffective since there is no penalty for failure tto comply.

The other two bills meeting committee deaths were LB894, turning the responsibility of returning fugitives from justice over to county attorneys and LB419, which would have prohibited certain indecent, obscene and immoral entertainment.

Sponsor Sen. Harold Simpson asked LB419 to be killed.

Given comittee approval and sent to the floor were.

—LB330, permitting professionals — such as doctors, lawyers or public accountants — to operate under a corporate structure.

—LB775, making it a specific crime to initiate a false fire alarm or bomb threat.

Demand For Development Services Told

Nebraska communities are putting a great demand on the department of economic development to provide planning services, the Legislature's Budget Committee was told Tuesday.

The department is asking for funds to triple the community development and local planning division staff.

"Many small communities need assistance and you hate to turn them down because they're our own," department director James Monroe said.

The department's proposed budget calls for increasing the division staff from 13 to 39, which would include staffing for regional offices in the central, western, northeast and southeast sections of the state.

The chairman of the repartment's advisory committee, Bennett Martin of Lincoln, told the committee expenditures made by the department "will flow back very fast" in terms of industrial growth.

The department has requested a $3.35 million appropriation. Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has recommended a $2.24 million general fund budget.

Schreurs Seeks 2 Interim Studies

Sen. Wayne Schreurs of Seward Tuesday introduced resolutions calling for interim legislative studies on tne licensing of psychiatric technicians and improving Nebraska campgrounds.

Both resolutions were laid over for future action in the Legislature.

"Psychiatric technicians perform a vital function in the care of the mentally ill," Schreurs said in Resolution No. 28. He asked for the study to determine if there is a need for legislation for regulating and licensing such state hospital aides.

The Public Health and Welfare Committee, of which Schreurs is a member, recently killed a bill, LB650, establishing a board of examiners and requiring psychiatric technicians to be licensed.

In Resolution No. 27, Schreurs said surrounding states have camping facilities which "far surpass" those in Nebraska state parks.

Thus, campers are attracted to other states, causing Nebraska to lose potential revenue. Schreurs said.

He urged a legislative committee to "find out how Nebraska can upgrade its camping facilities in state parks so as to compete favorably with neighboring states for our share of revenue from campers and promote tourism in this state."

Looks Like It, Feels Like It—But Is It?

Incredible as it may seem, Easter is just around the corner and, by all of the rules and regulations, that should mean that 'Spring is here'! The weatherman, however, hasn't proven himself entirely trustworthy during the past months, so, forgive us if we mention Spring — with tongue in cheek.

Easter is another story. It will arrive on the dot—Sunday, April 6. It goes without saying, therefore, that the news around suburban areas this morning involves Easter plans — But there also is news of travelers and a bit of this and of that.

We'll start with the Easter weekend plans of Eastborough residents Mr. and Mrs. Grant Peacock. Mr. and Mrs. Peacock will leave Lincoln on Friday, April 4, for Wichita, Kan., where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Osborne. Completing the family circle for the weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. Peacock's son and daughter-in-law and Mr. and Mrs. Osborne's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peacock of Clay Center.

The weekend of March 29 will be an exciting one for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Degenhart and their children, Joan, Danny, David, Alice, Richard, Carol and Mary Pat. That is the day the Eastborough family takes off for Miltonvale, Kan., and a weekend at the home of Mrs. Degenhart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Richard. The purpose of the trip is to greet Mrs. Degenhart's sister, Miss Barbara Richard, who just returned from a six months stay in Australia.

Miss Richard is the Clay County Home Extension Agent and received a six months leave of absence from her position to participate in the International Farm Youth Exchange program. While in Australia, Miss Richard was a guest of farm families throughout Australia, living in a different home each week.

Taking advantage of the beautiful weather we had last Sunday were Maple Village residents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Schnirl and their son, Scott, who were dinner guests at the Milford home of Mrs. Schnirl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wyman. Also attending the family dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Schnirl's daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Dick Ebbert and Kari, of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crawford, also of Maple Village, are looking forward to entertaining Mr. Crawford's mother, Mrs. Oscar Marrs of Brownstown, Ill., in their Maple Village home the week of Sunday, March 23, through Saturday, April 1. We aren't sure who are more excited about the visit, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Marrs or 21-month-old Tommy Crawford who is sure to be the star attraction during his grandmother's stay.

MISS SHERRY LEHR

Campus circles at Nebraska Wesleyan University will have an interest this morning in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Lehr of Papillion, of the engagement of their daughter, Sherry, to David Seaver, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Leroy Seaver of Wahoo.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, Aug. 24.

Miss Lehr is a junior at Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Delta Zeta sorority, Kappa Delta Pi honorary and where she is a Letter girl.

Mr. Seaver is a senior at Nebraska Wesleyan where his fraternity is Phi Kappa Tau.

Square Dance Festival

All square dancers in the state are invited to attend the ninth annual Square Dance Festival to be held in Council Bluffs, Saturday evening, March 29.

Because of crowded conditions in the past (more than 800 dancers attended last year), the festival will be held in two gymnasiums of the Lewis Central School.

Keith Thompsen of Portsmouth, Iowa, and Jerry Hesterworth of Omaha, will serve as callers for the evening of dancing from 8:30 o'clock to 11:30 o'clock.

An intermission program of entertainment has been planned by the sponsoring clubs, Circling Y's, Hoops 'n Boots, and Saturday Nite Dancers.

Spectators as well as dancers are welcome to attend.

PTA Officers

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beranek were re-elected co-presidents of Eastridge PTA at the March meeting.

Other officers, who will be installed in May, are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKee, vice presidents; Miss Inez Baker, second vice president; Dr. and Mrs. Russell Nelson, secretaries; and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mastalir, co-treasurers.

MISS SANDRA CHALUPSKY

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. William Chalupsky of Burwell of the engagement of their daughter, Sandra, to John Vandewalle, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Vandewalle of Albion.

Miss Chalupsky is a senior at the University of Nebraska.

Mr. Vandewalle also is a senior at the University of Nebraska.

State Meeting

The annual spring meeting of the Nebraska Association of Women Deans and Counselors will be held Saturday at the Hotel Lincoln.

Following an informal coffee hour and a welcome by Eldon Heskett, director of student services for the Lincoln Schools, a report on the national convention of the association will be given by Miss Helen Snyder, associate dean, student affairs, at the University of Nebraska.

Speaking on the conference theme, "Relevant Diversification," will be Mrs. Fred Nevels, Jr., of the Lincoln chapter of Women in Community Service, and Ron Hull, staff member of the University of Nebraska educational TV.

Officers of the state organization are Mrs. Jean Kleitsch, Lincoln High School, president; Mrs. Jayne Anderson, Panhellenic director at the University of Nebraska, vice president; Miss Irene Moerer, dean of women at Hastings College, secretary; and Miss Esther Wick, counselor at Omaha Technical High School, treasurer.

NU Coed Is Bride

Altar arrangements of white gladioli formed the background in St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Saturday afternoon, March 1, for the wedding of Miss Judith Ann Bowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Bowden, and Michael L. Severson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Severson of Portland, Ore. The service was solemnized at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Donald Imming, assisted by Dr. Glover A. Leitch, minister of the First Presbyterian Church. C. Richard Morris, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Bonnie Crump, vocal soloist.

Wearing afternoon frocks of aqua crepe with lace caps in matching tone were Miss Nancy Miller of Little Rock, Ark., the maid of honor and the bridesmaid, Miss Pamela Marie Butterfield. Each carried a single, long-stemmed white rose.

David Behrends of Colorado Springs, Colo., served as best man, and the groomsmen were Bob Bowden and David Bowden.

For her wedding, the bride chose a daytime gown of white Venise lace designed with long sleves and a crescent neckline. Her short, circular veil of illusion was held by a cluster of pearl petals, and she carried a prayer book covered with mother-of-pearl and ornamented with a nosegay of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Severson, both students at the University of Nebraska, will make their home at 1626 D.

Bridal Plans Revealed

University of Nebraska coed, Miss Kathy Kuska, has announced that her marriage to Marvin E. Mueller, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mueller of Columbus, will be solemnized on Easter Sunday, April 6, at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Columbus.

For the 4 o'clock ceremony, Miss Kuska, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Kuska of Columbus, has chosen Miss Beverly Sorensen of Blair, as her honor attendant. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Pamela Dalling of Norfolk; Miss Anne Leigh, Omaha; and her fiance's sister, Miss Karen Mueller of Columbus.

Miss Lori Stiff of Mt. Pocono, Pa., will attend her cousin as flower girl, and lighting the chancel candles will be Miss Marilyn Heiser and Miss Linda Rae, both of Columbus.

Serving his brother as best man will be Gary Mueller of Columbus, and seating the guests will be Randy Reeves, Omaha; Russ Stigge, Howells; Tom Rutz, Kimball; Mel Aerni, Columbus; and John Russell. The groomsmen will include Ernie Sigler, Dallas, Tex.; Bill Wright, Mt. Pocono, Pa.; and Les Hellbusch, Columbus. Mr. Mueller's brother, Tim Mueller of Columbus, will carry the rings.

The bride-to-be, who will be honored at numerous courtesies in Columbus, was presented a shower recently at a party given by her Kappa Alpha Theta sorority sisters at the Hotel Cornhusker. Hostesses for the informal dtssert-luncheon on Sunday, March 2, were Miss Pam Dalling, Miss Beverly Sorensen, Miss Anne Leigh and Miss Karen Mueller.

Also entertaining recently in courtesy to the senior coed was Miss Kuska's great aunt, Mrs. Oscar Otto, who was hostess at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Irene Otto and Miss Lucille Otto. The guests included feminine members of the family and family friends.

A former member of the university football team, Mr. Mueller is a senior and a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Revealing plans this morning for her late March wedding is Miss Jean Christensen, who will become the bride of Craig Roberts on Saturday, March 29.

The certmony will be solemnized at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at the First Baptist Church.

Attending her sister as maid of honor will be Miss Kathy Christensen, and the bridesmatrons will be Mrs. Tom Bassett and Mrs. Robert Vogel. Miss Jolene Roberts, niece of the bridegroom-elect, will be the flower girl.

Miss Susie Burner and Miss Kathy Eldridge will light the chancel candles.

Serving his brother as best man will be Jeff Roberts, and Miss Christensen's twin brothers, Jim Christensen and John Christensen, will seat the guests. The groomsmen will be Gary Higgens and Alan Wibbels.

A senior at the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Chi Omega, the bride-to-be is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Christensen. Her fiance, also a senior student at the university, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burt O. Roberts.

Some Good Sleep Promoters

Josephine Lowman

Yesterday I wrote about sleep and its importance to our health and happiness and looks. I mentioned how essential it is to be relaxed, physically and mentally, before expecting to fall asleep. I also brought you some ideas about mental relaxation from the book "Live Young as Long as You Live." Its author is Ira U. Cobleigh.

One of the best ways to induce sleep is to become physically tired. The average person does not get enough exercise. Modern conveniences and the car habit have robbed us of the exercise our forebears just naturally got while going about their work and activities. I have often mentioned taking a brisk walk or doing exercises before retiring. Physical exercise is a great relaxer!

In his book Mr. Cobleigh suggests some "untensing" exercises you can do to woo sleep after hitting the sack. Here are a few of them.

1. Lie on your back with your hands clasped behind your neck. Stretch as far in each direction as you can, pointing your toes and arching your neck. Then relax all of your muscles, from your toes to your head. Do this six times.

2. Lie on your side and bring your knees up quickly until your upper legs are at right angles to your body. Then straighten your legs, stretching all the way to your toes. Do this six times.

3. This is an excellent breathing exercise. Think of the word "slumber." Say "slum" when you inhale and "ber" when you exhale. Mr. Cobleigh says that the secret is to breathe twenty-five per cent more slowly than you normally do and to be sure to exhale more slowly than you inhale. The idea of this exercise is to breathe consciously as you do automatically when you are asleep. We breathe four or five times a minute when we sleep.

MATTRESS TOO SOFT?

Are you sleepy yet? If not consider the following factors. Is your mattress too hard or too soft? A board under your mattress will make it firmer. Do the covers pull on your toes? If so buy one of those metal contractions which hold the covers up away from your feet. I myself would not be without one. Is coffee or tea keeping you awake?

Everyone changes positions many, many times during the night. However, do not sleep on a pillow which is so large that it pushes your head forward at a tiring angle. This is not only uncomfortable but it will put wrinkles into your neck.

If you like to sleep on your back, or at least start out that way, pillows under your knees will relieve strain. If light awakens you early in the morning purchase an eye mask, especially for this use or darken the room with light resisting shades. If you cannot banish it or adjust to the noise about you, wear ear plugs.

Are you still tied up in knots? "Unlax," says Mrs. Lowman and gives directions for six more exercises for taking out the kinks in her free leaflet, "Exercises for Relaxing." For this leaflet, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star.

Gift For Camp Kiwanis

To the literally thousands of women in the state who have warm memories of girlhood days at Camp Kiwanis near Milford — memories of hikes, canoe trips and singing around the campfires as well as of mud, mosquitoes and sticky heat which no one seemed to mind — the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls has great news for you!

The entire appearance of Camp Kiwanis soon will be completely altered with the construction of new cabins, made possible by the Camp Fire Birthday Week gift of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett S. Martin.

The announcement of the gift, which will finance the construction of the first group of new cabins beginning in April, was made Tuesday noon at the meeting of the council, at which Mr. and Mrs. Martin were special guests.

An honorary life member of the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls, Mrs. Martin now has granddaughters active in the organization.

Current plans are to complete cabin construction next fall so that by the summer of 1970, the camp will be completely renovated.

ABBY: turn down the offer

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 52 and I have been keeping fairly steady company with a man who is 60. He's very considerate, generous, and I certainly appreciate his company, after having been a lonely widow for four years.

He asked me if I would like to move in and keep house for him so we can find out if we are "compatible" before trying marriage. He says there is nothing wrong with it at our ages.

I refused. Was I foolish? Lately I have been reconsidering his proposition. I don't enjoy being alone. He has money and could get plenty of other women on his terms.

Can you help me come to a decision?

LEXINGTON LADY

DEAR LADY: I say, let some other woman have the pleasure of "moving in" with him to find out if she is "compatible." Respectable couples of all ages still marry before they live together. If you want to be a "housekeeper" with sleep-in privileges, it's up to you.

DEAR ABBY: I think that BACHELOR CONSIDERING MARRIAGE has a lot of nerve. Any woman who'd marry him must be as crazy as he is.

Imagine a 70-year-old man who has never been married, saying he's "through with sex" and wanting a woman who isn't looking for a meal ticket. What else does he think he's good for?

So he raises roses. Big deal! I'll buy mine.

Opening lead — four of hearts.

It is always interesting to note, particularly in team of four matches, how one declarer reacts differently from another when faced with exactly the same problem.

For example, consider this deal from a team match where, at the first table, West led a heart against three notrump even though South had bid the suit.

Declarer took East's nine with the queen, and, seeing eight tricks in sight with two different chances for a ninth, he proceeded to cash the A-Q-K of spades in high hopes of finding the suit divided 3-3.

But West showed out on the third spade and South now had no choice but to rely on a diamond finesse. This turned out poorly when East won the queen with the king, cashed the jack of spades, and returned a heart to beat the contract two tricks.

At the second table, on similar bidding and the same opening lead, South took a different view of the proceedings. He realized that West was likely to have five hearts to the A-K-10 for his opening lead, and that it was dangerous to rely solely on a 3-3 spade break or a winning diamond finesse.

Accordingly, he ducked East's nine of hearts at trick one!

This unusual play turned out well when South eventually came home with ten tricks to make the contract. East returned a heart at trick two, South's jack losing to West's king.

West shifted to a club. South won with the queen and led the ten of diamonds, intending to double-finesse, but when West played the jack, South covered with the queen.

East did as well as he could when he ducked, but South returned to his hand with a spade and led another diamond. When West followed low, declarer finessed the seven, losing to the king, but then easily made the rest of the tricks.

Krivosha Is Named New City Attorney

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf announced Tuesday the appointment of attorney Norman Krivosha, 34, as the new city attorney.

Although the appointment must still be approved by the City Council, the choice was made after informally polling council members.

Krivosha, a partner in the law firm of Ginsburg, Rosenberg, Ginsburg, and Krivosha, will start work in his new position as of May 1 until full-time city attorney is named.

Law Firm Limited

Mayor Schwartzkopf said Krivosha is being loaned to the city by the law firm with the understanding that the attorney can continue his private business on a part-time basis and that neither he nor the law firm can participate in any legal matters in which the city is directly involved.

"I am delighted that Krivosha's law firm has agreed to loan him to the city for a time. This seems to be the best plan until the city is able to pay a competitive salary to obtain a full-time, experienced attorney."

Krivosha will replace Ralph Nelson, who has been named as corporation counsel to the city.

Mayor Schwartzkopf said the new city attorney will be paid $17,000. He indicated that if a charter amendment that will appear on the May ballot regarding the removal of the requirement the mayor be paid the highest salary is passed, a competitive salary of $20,000 to $25,000 will be offered to attract a permanent city attorney.

May Stay On

Mayor Schwartzkopf also said he would not remove Krivosha several months after he starts should the amendment be passed.

Krivosha said the May 1 starting date will give him time to disassociate himself from all matters he is now involved in pertaining to the city.

"I am honored and pleased by the appointment. I consider this an opportunity to serve my city in an important role," the attorney said.

Few Changes

Krivosha said he expects not to make any drastic changes within the City Law Department and that Deputy City Atty. Jack Lindner will continue on in his present position.

Krivosha has been active in county Democratic politics and served as Democratic county chairman for two terms from 1964-68.

Krivosha also was a leader in the effort to have a minimum housing code for the city.

Democrats Urge Aid To Students, Open Housing

Seward (UPI) — The Central Committee of the Nebraska Young Democrats went on record as favoring bills in the Legislature to provide for financial aid to Nebraska college students and to provide for an enforceable open housing law in Nebraska.

The committee met at Concordia College in Seward to finalize plans for their state convention in Omaha April 25-26.

Resolutions were also passed advocating that Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday on Jan. 15 be made a national holiday and that the Women's Job Corps remain in Omaha.

Fourteen county and university clubs were chartered into the state organization at the meeting.

Taped Instruction Said Like Tutor-Student Relationship

Simulating an "idealized situation" of one tutor-one student is possible "through the use of appropriate media," a Purdue University professor said in Lincoln Tuesday.

Dr. S. N. Postlethwait of the Purdue department of biological sciences told 250 educators and media specialists for the deaf that "each student is an individual."

"If it is best for every student to have a tutor, we should try to provide this idealized situation for all students," he said.

Instructor Best

With the use of media, Postlethwait declared, an excellent instructor can be recorded and made available as many times as necessary to accommodate any number of students.

Many bonus features have resulted from such use of media at Purdue, the professor told the three-day symposium.

Students are enthusiastic, grades have improved, the level of costs and general costs are somewhat less than a conventional system and the "system breaks the lock-step approach of conventional methods so that students can pace themselves," he said.

The potential of the media system still has not been totally exploited, Postlethwait added.

However, Glenn S. Pfau, assistant director of a project on language improvement to facilitate the education of hearing-impaired children, reported that after five years of experimentation, "the project has concluded that instruction for the development of true expressive language can be much more effectively accomplished by an average teacher of the deaf than it can by machine."

"If we can guarantee the exact wording of a correct response in a subject that possesses the scope and the many faceted features of English, to what extent can that response be considered expressive language?" he asked.

Programmers cannot guess all possible answers and phrasings, Pfau declared.

Also presenting papers were Dr. John Yeager, assistant director of the Learning Research and Development Center at the University of Pittsburgh; Dr. E. Ross Stuckless, director of National Technical Institute for the Deaf; G. H. Rathe, director of education in the data processing division of International Business Machines; Dr. Thomas Behrens, director, and Leland Clack, math coordinator, both of the Kendall School for the Deaf.

Dr. Gabriel Ofiesch, director of the Center for Educational Technology at Catholic University, spoke at the Tuesday evening banquet on individualization of learning and the necessary revolution in education.

Problems Of Disadvantaged Youth To Be Studied Further

Lincoln Community Council director John Goessman was asked Tuesday to continue a study aimed at helping disadvantaged and potentially delinquent youths.

Some 25 representatives of 16 youth-serving agencies agreed at a meeting Tuesday that Goessman should meet individually with the agencies to discuss problems further and evaluate resources available for meeting some of the problems.

Goessman said he would prepare some recommendations for the agencies consideration in about one month.

Representatives of the PTA, YMCA, YWCA, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Salvation Army, Belmont and Malone Community Centers, City Recreation, 4-H, Lincoln Action Program, Community Chest and Council attended the meeting called to seek methods of "filling the gaps in youth services," said Mrs. Robert Beggs, president of Lincoln Area Council PTA.

While the agencies are "doing a good job," there are hundreds of disadvantaged children and potential delinquents or school dropouts who are not being served, she pointed out.

Even though agencies will waive dues, some youths are embarrassed to ask and others won't take the initiative, she pointed out. Many programs encourage a great deal of parent participation while some of the "hard to reach" youths do not have parents with time or desire to take part.

Other staff members indicated that they are aware that programs are often too "building-centered," and do not provide activities relevant to a youth's interest.

"Recreation isn't meaningful to a disadvantaged teen-age boy who would rather receive help in finding a job to earn some money," one noted.

WORKMAN KILLED IN SEWER TRENCH MISHAP

Omaha (AP) — Calvin Eilers, 39, of Millard was killed Tuesday afternoon when several large pieces of dirt fell into a sewer trench in the West Dodge expressway project in Omaha

He was an employe of H. J. Miller Construction, Inc., of Millard.

Project foreman Wayne Jenney, 39, of Millard, said he and Francis H. Redden of Omaha were inspecting the digging with Eilers.

The men were standing inside a 10-foot metal box which shores up the 20-foot hole when someone shouted a warning. Jenney said several chunks fell from the dirt wall above, knocking Jenney to the ground and hitting Eilers.

Rescue Squad Capt. Arthur Hanna said Eilers suffered internal injuries and a broken jaw, possibly when he struck his head againss the metal side of the protective box.

'Indians Want Freedom To Choose Own Ways'

By DAVE ZIMMERMAN
Star Staff Writer

There is no honor for the American Indian in competing for victory in "somebody else's ball park," Robert Bennett, U.S. Commissioner of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, said Tuesday of "forced assimilation" tactics used in the past on his people.

Bennett, in Lincoln to videotape a program for the NET Council for Higher Education, spoke of this country's 680,000 first Americans as "knowing they have problems, but wanting to solve them on their own terms."

According to Bennett, there has been much progress during the past 35 years, and he was quick to point out that Indian progress has been made through "reason" rather than through the advocating of revolution.

'Progress Slower'

"Some of the young realize that their peoples' progress has been slower than the development of other minority groups, but they remain action-oriented rather than violence-oriented," Bennett said.

This fact is surprising, he commented, considering that Indians are the only minority group against which the U.S. has carried on a policy of "mass extermination."

Bennett attributed the Indian's peaceful political workings partly to the fact that they realize this is "their country." "They wouldn't do anything to bring shame or ridicule to this land," he said.

Bennett said in past instances whites often assumed government programs were helping in the assimilation process, when in reality the tribes used the programs to strengthen the old ways.

One example of this, Bennett noted, occurred when a tribe began to go into the cattle business on a large scale.

"But when they were powerful enough to get the white people off the reservation, they no longer cared about their business," he said.

A new Indian Bureau policy which allows Indians to make their own decisions is one of the greatest boosts to their progress, Bennett said.

Recent breakthroughs which have been made in this area, Bennett noted, was the capturing of all four elective offices by Indians in Winnebago, Neb., where they comprise 80% of the population; and the election of tribe members to all seven school board positions in Macy.

Jewett Files For Council

Grey R. Jewett Sr., 68, of 4500 Sumner, filed Tuesday as a candidate for City Council.

Jewett, a retired Western Electric Co. executive, has been active in a variety of Lincoln civic affairs since 1944.

He was an unsuccessful candidate for the City Council in 1967 running on a platform for a reduced tax levy, strong central business district integrated with regional shopping areas, tax ceiling limit, and getting rid of the downtown 30-minute parking meters.

Jewett has served as vice president of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, president of the Community Chest, director of the Lancaster County Red Cross, district chairman of the Boy Scouts, president of the Veterans Service Center, truestee of the Bryan Memorial Hospital, and chairman of the Nebraska Merit System Council.

He has been previously employed by the Lincoln Dowtown Development Corp sinct his retirement to work on parking and other problems for the corporation.

Huff Enters Council Race

Charles Huff, 30, of 3785 H St., filed Tuesday for nomination in the April, City Council election.

Huff, a Lincoln attorney, said after filing that more than 1,000 citizens from all sections of the city signed his petitions.

He said that good city government requires that a city's needs be met head on and that intelligent planning must be made for an expanding city.

"Today there are certain problems which must be solved promptly or our citizens will lose out," Huff said.

He said the tabling of the Power Advisory Board proposal for a charter amendment to create a separate board to run the Lincoln Electric System was "ill advised."

"The voters should have had a chance to express their approval for the board. I would work for such a board and the consolidation of utility functions," Huf said.

"I would also work for better and more efficient public transportation, which looms as a big headache for Lincoln," Huff said.

He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Law and presently serves as president of the Barristers Club of Lincoln.

Huff also is a member of the Human Rights Commission.

Giebelhaus Council Bidder

Ralph Giebelhaus, 28, of 3931 No. 13th St., filed Tuesday for election to the City Council.

Giebelhaus, an employe of Wadlow's Mortuary, said he is concerned about the tax situation in the city.

"I think alternative ways to finance city government should be used so that increased costs will not burden the taxpayer," he said.

He said friends and organizations had encouraged him to run for public office.

Giebelhaus is president of the American Forward Association and a member of the Jaycees, Masons, Eastern Star and American Legion.

Dr. Karl Grunewald, director of Sweden's mental retardation services, will be in Lincoln Wednesday to inspect services for the mentally retarded here. He will speak at a public program sponsored by the Nebraska Association for Retarded Children at 8 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church.

Buss Candidate For School Board

Herbert Buss, 36, of 3045 No. 60th, Tuesday filed as a candidate for the Lincoln Board of Education.

Buss is manager and computer programmer in the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture statistical laboratory.

He is married and the father of one child.

A member of the American Legion and First Presbyterian Church, Buss graduated from Wisconsin State College and received his master's degree from North Dakota State University.

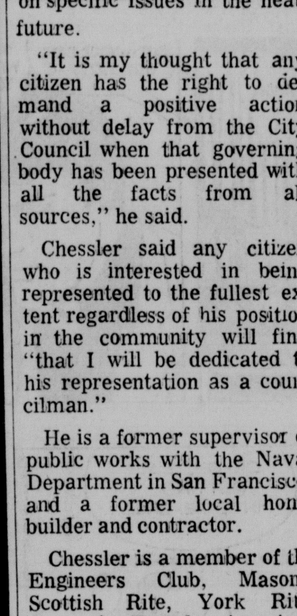
Buss has lived in Lincoln since 1960 attending NU and teaching at the Manpower Training Center except for one year of teaching at Weston. He has been in his present position since 1966.

Buss said he thinks his experience in management and computer usage would be valuable to the school board as schools become more involved with the "technological aspects of educational programs."



T. L. CHESSLER

Chessler In Council Test

T. L. (Ted) Chessler, 55, of 3636 L St., filed Tuesday for election to the City Council.

Chessler, part owner and president of Fabricated Products, Inc., a building specialties company, said he would make public his views on specific issues in the near future.

"It is my thought that any citizen has the right to demand a positive action without delay from the City Council when that governing body has been presented with all the facts from all sources," he said.

Chessler said any citizen who is interested in being represented to the fullest extent regardless of his position in the community will find "that I will be dedicated to his representation as a councilman."

He is a former supervisor of public works with the Naval Department in San Francisco, and a former local home builder and contractor.

Chessler is a member of the Engineers Club, Masons, Scottish Rite, York Rite, Sesostris Temple, American Forward Association, Elks, Froniter Scouts and C. B. Radio Club.

Many Facets To Golf

South Sioux City — Most good golfers think of the gamt only in terms of birdies, pars and bogeys; most of us duffers think of it in terms of double-bogeys, triple-bogeys and worse.

But Bill Clark, treasurer of the National PGA, had some lighter thoughts on the frustrating game as he appeared here at the annual spring meeting of the Nebraska PGA Section.

"I think golf may really have had its beginning in Africa where natives take clubs and beat them on the ground and make wailing noises," he observed. "They call it a form of expressing yourself.

"We do the same thing here and we call it golf.

"Golf also is like a love affair. It's miserable if you take it seriously and if you don't take it seriously, it's not worth a damn."

Clark also had an explanation of how the game came to be an 18-hole game instead of 16 or 21 holes.

"The best explanation I have heard of how it came to be 18 holes," he said, "was that when the first Scot went out to play the game, he took a bottle of scotch with him.

"After teeing off on each hole, he would take a nip from his bottle. After he had teed off on the 18th hole, the bottle was empty so he quit after that hole.

"He figured there was no sense continuing if his bottle was empty and since then, golf has consisted of 18 holes.

Golfing Vs. Bird Watching

The National PGA officer related the story about the two golfers who were out in a driving rainstorm when they spotted two fellows off in the woods watching birds.

The one golfer turned to the other and observed, "You'd have to be crazy to be out in this weather watching birds."

"Golf also must be good for the stomach," Clark observed, "There once was a doctor, who specialized in stomach disorders and this doctor prescribed only one of two things.

"He'd ask the patient if he played golf. If the patient said Yes, he'd tell him to quit the game. If he said No, he'd tell him to start playing it."

Golf also teaches great self-control, he pointed out, explaining, "You have to have great self-control to be a high handicapper who shoots in the high hells and dams.

"Then there were the two priests who were out playing one day and one of the priests missed a putt that rolled over the cup. The other priest exclaimed, 'Why, Father, your putt runneth over.' "

Grand Slam Rare Feat

One of the rarest feats in sports also belongs in the world of golf, according to Clark, citing the Grand Slam of winning the U.S. Open, U.S. Amateur, British Open and British Amateur.

"The last one to do it was Bobby Jones in 1930," he recalled, "And someone once wrote that before it happens again, Brigitte Bardot will be named mayor of Boston, Joe E. Lewis will be made president of the Women's Temperance Union, a midget will be elected president of the United Statts and Nikita Khrushchev will be made chairman of the board on Wall Street."

The season can't be far away.

—TOURNAMENTS SET—

Hillcrest Site Of PGA Meet

South Sioux City — Lincoln's Hillcrest Country Club was selected as the site for the Nebraska PGA Golf Championship for this year at the annual spring meeting of the Nebraska PGA here.

The 36-hole tournament will be held Oct. 7-8.

Tentative dates were set for three other major Nebraska professional tournaments with the Grain Belt Open at Omaha's Miracle Hills tentatively set for June 13-14, the KHAS-TV Indian Summer Open at Hastings Lochland Country Club for Sept. 13-14 and the Ross Lorello Gold Chip Classic at an Omaha site to be named tentatively scheduled for Sept. 21-22.

The Grain Belt Open, KHAS-TV Indian Summer Open and Gold Chip Classic also include an amateur division.

Another new tournament was added to the scene — the Multiple Sclerosis Charity Tournament set for May 23 at the Skyline Golf Club near Elkhorn.

Out of the $30 entry fee, $25 will go the Multiple Sclerosis Fund. Through donations, pros will be playing for $1,700 and amateurs for $4.000 in prizes.

A schedule of pro-ams was also set up beginning with a pro-pro at the Omaha Country Club on April 21.

Other dates:

April 28 — Fremont Valley View (pro-am); May 5—Omaha Happy Hollow (Pro-pro); 12—Lincoln Country Club (pro-am); June 2—Omaha Benson Park (pro-am); 9—Council Bluffs Dodge Park (Pro-pro); 23—Lincoln Holmes Park (pro-am); July 14—Norfolk Country Club (pro-am); 21—Hastings Lochland Country Club (pro-pro); 28—Grand Island Riverside Golf Club (pro-lady); Aug. 4—Fremont Golf Club (pro-junior); 11—Millard Oak Hills (pro-pro); 18—Omaha Miracle Hills (pro-am) Sept. 23—Omaha Happy Hollow Country Club (pro-senior); 28—Omaha Highland Country Club (pro-board of directors).

Men's State Golf Plans Announced

Norfolk — Plans for the Nebraska Men's State Medal and Match Play Championships were outlined Tuesday by Don Bridge, president of the Nebraska Amateur Golf Association.

The medal play tournament will be played at the Norfolk Country Club July 14-19 and the match play championship is set for the Omaha Happy Hollow Country Club June 20-22.

A pro-am is scheduled Norfolk on July 14 with July 15 set for a practice day. Golfers will play an 18-hole round on July 16-17 with the field being cut to the low 54 and ties after 36 holes.

It will be reduced to the low 32 and ties after 54 holes on July 18 with the final 18 holes set for July 19.

The tournament will be limited to the first 150 entries and entry blanks will be available at all pro shops in the state soon.

In the match play tournament which consists of the top 14 finishers from last year's medal play tourney plus the winner and runner-up from last summer's match play affair, two rounds will be played the first day with semifinals set for June 21 and the final match for June 22.

Kanarick Quits Academy Position

Chadron (UPI) —The head football and track coach at Assumption Academy in Chadron, Joe Kanarick, has announced his resignation, effective Aug. 15.

Kanarick, 30, is a native of Bethlehem, Pa., and has been with the Academy since graduation from Chadron State College in 1965.

This year his team compild a 9-0 record and captured the championship of the Western 10 Conference, which has eight-man teams.

Kanarick said he plans to work full time for his master of science degree at Chadron State. No successor was named immediately.

Walseth Named Big 8 Coach Of Year

Kansas City (AP) — Russell "Sox" Walseth has coached nine winning teams in his 13 years at the University of Colorado, but none of them made any bigger splash than his 1969 edition.

The Buffaloes, who tied for eighth in the Big Eight in 1968 with a dismal 3-11 league record and 9-16 over-all mark, pulled one of the dramatic about-faces in conference history to win the title this year. They won the Big Eight win a 10-4 record and were 21-7 over-all.

It was Walseth's third Big Eight crown, including a tie with Kansas State in 1963, and for coaching accomplishment Walseth Tuesday was named conference coach of the year by the Associated Press.

Finishing a strong second in balloting by Big Eight coaches, sportswriters and sportscasters was Norm Stewart of Missouri, with Glen Anderson of Iowa State third.

Everyone knew Colorado had talent coming up for the 1968-69 cage race, but it was so young that most did not figure the fledgling Buffs could keep from knocking themselves out of contention with costly mistakes.

Walseth molded three sophomores and two juniors into a unit which withstood the rigors of one of the closest conference races in history to win the Big Eight title outright.

His prize yearling was Cliff Meely, the 6-foot-8 native of Chicago who was named Big Eight player of the year Tuesday. The other sophomore starters were Tim Wedgeworth and Dudley Mitchell, both of Denver. The starting juniors were Gordon Tope and Mike Coleman.

Additionally, the Buffs had 7-2 Ron Smith, another sophomore, who became scholastically ineligible the second semester, and Walseth had to adjust the Buffs to his loss. Smith is expected to regain his eligibility next year.

Walseth likes to joke about his contributions as coach.

"I haven't had time to foul up our sophomores yet," he quipped. "And I really did a great job coaching Meely, didn't I?"

Meely became the highest scorer for a sophomore in Big Eight history, scoring 348 points in 14 league games for a 24.9 average. That erased Wilt Chamberlain's record of 305 points in 1957.

Walseth, 42, is a native of Pierre, S.D., who starred for Colorado in basketball in 1947-48 and coached two years at South Dakota State before succeeding H. B. "Bebe" Lee as Colorado coach for the 1956-57 season.

Drake '5' Planning Slowdown

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — John Wooden, UCLA basketball coach, goes after a record third consecutive national campionship this week, still stoutly maintaining he has a five-man team, not a one-man gang.

"But we do try to get Lew Alcindor in close to the basket," he admitted in a characteristic understatement, "And, if we can get him in a one-on-one situation, well, it might be difficult for the other team to handle him."

Wooden, who has won four of the last five national titles; Dean Smith of North Carolina, George King of Purdue and Maury John of Drake got together in a long distance telephone interview Tuesday before departing for Louisville and the national tournament Thursday.

North Carolina, ranked fourth with a 27-3 record, plays No. 6 Purdue, 22-4, in the opening semifinal at 6:40 p.m., CST, Thursday. The top-ranked Bruins, 27-1, are heavily favored against No. 11 Drake, 25-4, in the nightcap at 8:40 p.m. The winners play for the national title Saturday at 4:15 p.m.

All games will be televised nationally by NBC-TV.

The 7-foot-1 Alcindor, two-time player of the year and three-time All-American, is the key figure in the tournament. The Bruins have lost only two games in three years and have captured two national titles under the leadership of Alcindor, one of the most outstanding collegiate performers in the game's history.

"We know we're playing a super team with several super players," Drake Coach John said. Asked if he planned to slow down the game in an attempt to halt UCLA, John replied: "We'll pretty much stay with our basic game. We don't plan any drastic changes. We know we're the tournament underdog, but we're used to that. We had the same situation in our conference play. But we have a bunch of courageous kids and we feel it's too late in the season to make drastic changes in our game."

Wooden, asked if Alcindor may break out with a fantastic scoring effort in his last two collegiate games, said that it "is not my philosophy of the game. I believe that over a season every position on the team has an equal number of scoring opportunities."

Then he added:

"Of course, you sometimes find a boy who is exceptionally aggressive or who has exceptional ability."

Alcindor comes into the game with a 24.1 scoring average and 14.5 rebounds a game.

Both John and Wooden said their teams were in top shape physically, with Wooden adding that the Bruins "are back in shape mentally. We're in a condition that we haven't been for some time."

North Carolina and Purdue, however, each have problems.

Dick Grubar, a starter from North Carolina for three years and their top defensive player, the man originally counted on to guard Purdue ace Rick Mount, is out with a knee injury. "He'll accompany the team but will not suit up," Smith said.

King said Herman Gilliam, Purdue's No. 2 scorer, is in a doubtful status with an Achilles tendon injury and that 7-foot center Chuck Davis is definitely out.

COLBERT WINS MONSANTO

Final Round 67 Earns Ex-KSU Gridder Title

... IN SOGGY GOLF MEET

COLBERT . . . First pro victory.

Pensacola, Fla. (AP) — Jim Colbert, playing in 35-mile-an hour Florida gusts as if they were a Kansas breeze, fired a 67 Tuesday and won the rain-spotted $100,000 Monsanto Open Golf for his first tour victory with a 72-hole total of 267, 17 under par.

Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md., was second with 269.

The final round was washed out on Sunday and again on Monday. Start of play Tuesday was delayed an hour to give the soggy fairways a chance to dry out some.

Colbert, a 28-year-old former insurance agent and Kansas State football player, hit knee high iron shots and nailed down seven birdies with a crucial putt coming on the 155-yard par 3 16th hole on the par 71 Pensacola Country Club course.

"I knew I could win if I birdied 16," he said.

"I played my old game and I haven't played the winds like that for a long time," said Colbert, who began playing golf in Kansas at age nine. "I don't play well enough to play safe.

"The winds were going around in circles," he added.

Colbert, who held a one-stroke lead over Beman after Saturday's third round, increased his lead to three strokes after the 11th hole of the final 18 and faltered just once he bogeyed the 12th a par 5 test.

U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, two shots back of Colbert after 54 holes, moved into a tie with Beman after 16 holes, but fell back one stroke when Beman landed his second shot six inches from the pin for a birdie 3 on the 415-yard 18th. Trevino finished with a 68 for a final 270. Beman, two-time U.S. Amateur champion, also had a final 68.

Next at 272 was 1963 rookie-of-the-year Ray Floyd with a final 69. Gary Player, Larry Hinson and Tommy Aaron were next at 275.

The $20,000 first prize boosted Colbert's 1969 earnings to more than $23,000. His best previous finish in four years on the tour was a third at Jacksonville in 1967. His 1968 earnings totaled only $12,000, 104th on the money list.

Beman, who also was looking for his first pro victory after two years on the tour, said his downfall on the final round came when he three-putted the par 4 10th and par 4 15 holes. Second money here was worth $11,400 to Beman, also a former insurance man.

The 71 contestants, playing under provisional rules because of huge puddles dotting the fairways, were permitted to improve their lies. But Beman said the course looked much more difficult than it actually was.

Defending champion George Archer finished well back at 286, two over par, 22 shots more than he took to win last year.

Colbert, who wiled away the two-day rainout playing bridge and putting on his motel room rug, said the victory was something he'd always dreamed about.

"Winning is the big thing," he said. "I can always find something to do with the $20,000."

Huskers Win Opener, 3-1

... BECKMANN BELTS HOMER, TRIPLE; STOHS STOPS COUGARS

Houston, Tex. (AP) — The University of Nebraska scored a pair of runs in the second inning and added a run in the sixth to open its baseball season Tuesday with a 3-1 victory over the University of Houston.

Dennis Jorgensen rapped a single for the Cornhuskers to spark a 2-0 lead after Bob Griego opened the second inning with a double and advanced to third on a passed ball.

Jorgensen moved to second on a fielder's choice before scoring on Tom Tidball's single.

Dennis Beckmann homered for Nebraska in the sixth and also hit a triple.

Stohs, the Grand Island freshman who had an outstanding American Legion record at the Third City, fanned seven while walking only two in his collegiate debut.

He yielded four hits in seven innings to pick up the victory, while reliever Glen Gilmore mopped up, allowing only one hit in the last two frames.

Houston, now 3-4, scored its only run on a fourth-inning homer by cleanup hitter Jim Sparkman.

Raabe Rewrites Concordia Cage Record Book

Seward —Sophomore Tom Raabe set five new school records for Concordia College's basketball team this season, final team statistics showed Tuesday.

Raabe set Bulldog marks of 43 points in one game, made against Dana; 601 points in one season; 1,036 career points, with two seasons still left; 239 field goals in one season and 123 free throws in one year.

Eight cagers lettered the past campaign for the Bulldogs: senior Kent Jones; junior Art Greve; sophomores Rod Giesselmann, Jan Lohmeyer, Brian Naber and Raabe, and freshmen Kent Berkeland and Steve Schrader.

Four Nebraska collegiate performers made the Bulldogs' all-opponent team: Les Grant of Doane, Pete Stewart of Peru, Ken Ahl of Nebraska Wesleyan and John Biddle of Dana. Herb Buckner of Sioux Falls completed the first team selections.

McLain Belted, Cards' Bob Gibson Fans Four

By Associated Press

Bob Gibson and Denny McLain, baseball's outstanding pitchers of 1968, were only half as successful Tuesday.

Gibson, St. Louis' shutout king, struck out four batters in three innnings in his first spring appearance as the Cardinals ended Baltimore's seven-game winning streak with a 9-5 exhibition victory.

McLain, meanwhile, was tagged for six runs in four innings as Philadelphia walloped the world champion Detroit Tigers 6-2.

The Cardinals scored six times off Baltimore's Tom Phoebus in the second inning and coasted past the Orioles. Ray Washburn, Nelson Briles and Steve Carlton, the Redbirds' other three starters, followed Gibson to the mound. Carlton fanned five in two innings but was clipped for one of Paul Blair's two home runs.

McLain, as usual, had gopher ball trouble. Bill White tagged him for a three-run homer in the Phillies' five-run second inning and Richie Allen belted a solo shot in the third.

The New York Mets got shutout pitching for the second straight day — this time from Tom Seaver, Nolan Ryan and Tug McGraw — and blanked Los Angeles 3-0.

The New York Yankees pushed across four unearned runs in the eighth — three on Bobby Murcer's pinch homer — and downed Cincinnati 7-5. Fred Whitfield and Leon Wagner homered for the Reds.

Joe Coleman, Dick Bosman and Dave Baldwin combined for a three-hitter as Washington whipped Montreal 5-0. Mike Epstein's bases-loaded single featured a three-run eighth inning.

Denny Lemaster and Tom Griffin yielded seven hits in pitching Houston to a 4-0 conquest of the Chicago White Sox. Randy Hundley's leadoff homer in the fourth inning, one of his three hits, started a four-run uprising that sparked the Chicago Cubs past Seattle 8-5.

The San Diego Padres scored all their runs in their last four at-bats and crushed Alifornia 9-3. Clarence Gaston homered for the Padres.

The Cleveland Indians battered Jim Nash and Roland Fingers for 10 runs in the second inning, including home runs by Tony Horton and Duke Sims, and outlasted Oakland 10-8.

The Kansas City-Pittsburgh game was rained out.

Minnesota and Atlanta played a night game.

Snyder To Field Cheering Section

Omaha — Russ Snyder of the Cleveland Indians will have a built-in cheering section when the Tribe plays the Montreal Expos in an exhibition game at Omaha's Rosenblatt Stadium April 5 at 1:30.

A number of fans from Snyder's hometown of Nelson are expected for the exhibition contest, next to last before the two clubs open the major league season.

Snyder was born at Oak and now lives at Nelson, a few miles away from his birthplace.

Snyder is a 10-year major league veteran and has a career batting average of .276. His best season came in 1966 when he batted .306 with the pennant winning Baltimore Orioles.

Quarry To Fight Mathis

. . . MONDAY WINNER GETS SHOT AT FRAZIER?

Grossinger, N.Y. (AP) — "The Lump is going to get his lumps," says Jerry Quarry.

The Lump is what the California heavyweight calls Buster Mathis, the giant 6-foot-3, 235-pound contender who meets Quarry in a 12-round elimination fight at Madison Square Garden next Monday night.

The winner is expected to get a title fight with Joe Frazier, five-state heavyweight king from Philadelphia.

"He's got a baby's head with a lump for a body," said Quarry at his training camp here Tuesday. "I'm going to beat that body hard."

The No. 2 contender from Bellflower, Calif., obviously is trying to upset his thin-skinned opponent.

He's hoping that Buster will get angry enough to slug it out with him. Mathis is a stick and move fighter despite his size, and has indicated he plans to box the hard-hitting Californian.

Quarry, a one-time wade-in slugger who turned into a cautious counter-puncher at his father's command, has switched back to a more aggressive style.

"I've got to make up for that Jimmy Ellis fight," he said. "That was a real stinker, I was real bad. But I had a broken rib and a broken vertebra and had to be put into a cast for five weeks after the fight.

"Still it was a stinker and I've got to make up for it with no excuses if I want to get a shot at Frazier."

The 6-1, 197-pounder lost in a dull 15-rounder to Ellis for the World Boxing Association's heavyweight title last April 27.

Quarry has to concede Mathis two inches in height, four inches in reach, and about 38 pounds. Some of the experts rate big Buster a faster puncher. This nettles Quarry.

"The Lump has fast hands, all right," said Quarry, "but I can punch faster.

'I've got to win this fight or it's back to the boondocks again. But above all I don't want the fight to be another stinker. The fans deserve a good, interesting fight."

At a $30 top, they certainly do.

Conflict Could Delay Decision On Alignment

. . . WINTER GRID MEETINGS

Palm Springs, Calif. (AP) — Opposition within the American Football League to retention of the present setup of the American and National Leagues for 1970 grew Tuesday, threatening to force a delay in an agreement until May or later.

At the same time, Pete Rozelle, commissioner of pro football, disclosed there was some minor opposition in the NFL to the plan unanimously recommended by the joint study committee on alignment Monday.

The committee, composed of three owners from each league, recommended to the 26 owners that the leagues retain their present alignment — 16 teams in the NFL and 10 in the AFL — and include an unspecified number of interleague games in the 1970 scheduled.

Three AFL voters had expressed their opposition to this plan even before arriving at this desert resort for the annual winter meetings.

Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals, Gerald Phipps of the Denver Broncos and Joseph Robbie of the Miami Dolphins all insist the merger agreement of June 8, 1966, flatly states that the leagues will realign for next year.

No one was talking, but it was learned that this trio had gained support from the New York Jets and possibly the San Diego Chargers. It takes only three AFL teams to veto any particular proposal.

"There are differences of opinion within both leagues," Rozelle told a news conference at the end of the second day of sessions. "There is some minor opposition in the NFL to the 16-10 plan and also some differences of opinion in related areas, such as the number of inter-league games."

The revelation that opposition to the recommended plan exists in the NFL was a surprise since the general thinking was the NFL was just waiting for the AFL to make up its mind.

The more opposition there is, of course, the longer it will take for both leagues to agree on a plan for 1970.

Rozelle said he was hopeful that such agreement could be reached by Friday evening but also noted that it took three 12-hour days two years ago for the NFL to divide itself from two eight team divisions into four groups of four teams each.

If the owners fail to reach agreement this week, the problem, most likely will be carried over to the spring meetings in May.

The focal point of the opposition by the AFL people is the wording of the merger agreement.

—36TH THIRD BASEMAN—

LA's Sudakis Falls In Line

Vero Beach, Fla. (AP) —In the 11 seasons since the Dodgers moved from Brooklyn to Los Angeles there have been 140 different players on the roster through the 1968 season.

More than one-quarter of them have been third basemen.

No. 36 is Bill Sudakis, and it may be another 11 seasons before there's any need for No. 37.

Sudakis comes that highly rated, particularly after the one month he put together when he was brought up from the minors last year, and despite the fact that he went up to the plate that entire month with his contact lenses crossed.

A 23-year-old well-built 6-foot-1, 190-pounder of Lithuanian and Norwegian descent, Sudakis got a 24-game trial with the Dodgers last year and hit .276 while showing power with four doubles, two triples, three homers and 12 runs batted in.

But the Dodgers feel that neither that performance nor his .294 average at Albuquerque are indicative of what he may be able to do — for he played more than half the season in Albuquerque and the entire month with the Dodgers with his left contact lens in his right eye and vice versa.

"I've been wearing contacts for eight years," Sudakis said as he explained the situation that found him crossing his lenses. "The pair I started last year with got warped. When I got the new pair I got them mixed up somehow."

"It would be just like someone with glasses wearing them backwards."

Sudakis doesn't know how much effect that had on his hitting but the Dodgers noticed his eyes were irritated at the end of the season and sent him to a doctor, who finally solved the mystery by pointing out the left-right problem.

With that problem solved, Sudakis is ready to try and solve the one the Dodgers have had at third base.

"I haven't proved anything — not by a long shot," Sudakis said frankly. "I can't consider that I really got the best of the pitchers in one month last year by hitting .270.

"But third base is my position. I don't believe in any voodoos, jinxes or anything like that. The fact there have been a lot of third basemen doesn't bother me.

Boston College, Cadets Corral NIT Victories

. . . TOP LOUISVILLE, GAMECOCKS

New York (AP) — Hard-pressed Boston College, led by Terry Driscoll, held off Louisville, 88-83, Tuesday night in an action-packed National Invitation Basketball Tournament quarter-final game.

In the opener of the Madison Square Garden doubleheader, Army's rugged band of perfectionists took control in the first half on the shooting of Dick Simmons and Jim Oxley and stunned favored South Carolina, 59-45.

Boston College and Army meet Thursday night in one of the semifinals with Monday night's winners, Tennessee and Temple, clashing in the other.

Although Boston College led most of the way as the teams traded fast breaks and fast baskets, it wasn't until substitute Ray LaGace hit a basket that the Eagles went ahead to stay, 60-58.

Louisville, never quitting, kept right on the heels of the Eagles until Driscoll scored for an 83-77 spread with 58 seconds remaining. Then Jim O'Brien dropped a decisive free throw with less than 20 seconds to go for an 84-79 lead that wrapped up BC's 18th straight victory.

Driscoll, 6-foot-7 pivot man, finished with 29 points, 18 of them in the first half when the Eagles moved ahead 44-42. He also had 22 rebounds.

With Simmons hitting 12 of his 14 points and Oxley 11 of his 16, Army took an 11-4 early margin and led South Carolina, 31-23 at halftime, shooting 56.5 per cent from the field.

South Carolina, 21-7, managed only 33.3 per cent, with ace John Roche only 2-for-9, as smaller Army's top defense in the country and meticulous ball control set the pattern of play. The Gamecocks never recovered.

The spread went as high as 18 points late in the final half and Army, 18-8, easily walked off with its eighth straight victory and gained the semis for the fourth time in six NIT appearances.

Roche, a 24-point-per-game scorer entering the tournament, finished with 16.

Lincoln Downs Mishap Incinerates 39 Horses

. . . COUNT JOPA AMONG DEAD

Lincoln, R.I. (AP) — "It was horrible," John Lynch said Tuesday. "It was like being in hell."

Lynch, a groom at Lincoln Downs race track, had just seen 39 horses worth an estimated $500,000 perish in a general alarm fire that swept a barn at the track late Monday night.

"They were screaming," Lynch, 27, said of the horses. "They were completely out of their minds."

Among the horses killed was Count Jopa, a 3-year-old colt recently nominated for the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont, racing's Triple Crown. He was worth an estimated $75,000.

Lynch, from Cambridge, Mass., was living in a room at one end of the barn. He said he was awakened by a dog and found one end of the structure engulfed in flames. He said he tried unsuccessfully to lead some of the terrified horses outside.

Count Jopa, a 3-year-old, finished second last week in the $25,000-added Swift Stakes at Aqueduct in New York. He was owned by John H. Cataldo of Somerville, Mass., and trained by Sam Sahagian.

Another of the horses killed was the stakes winning Jet Formation.

Authorities said the fire started in a center tack room, but the cause was not determined immediately.

The fire damaged some nearby barns before it was brought under control, but damage to the other structures was described as slight.

Some horses apparently survived the blaze, but how many was not known. Several horses reportedly were seen running loose along darkened highways in the early morning darkness after the fire.

Hunting Bills Are Defeated

By Associated Press

Two bills permitting Nebraskans to hunt along county roadsides were killed Monday by the Legislature's Agriculture and Recreation Committee.

The bills, introduced by Sen. Theodore Wenzlaff of Sutton and Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, were opposed at their public hearings by large numbers of farmers and ranchers earlier in the month.

Proponents of the bills, including state Game Commission Director Mel Steen, had said that the measures would only legalize what large numbers of hunters are doing already.

Also killed Monday were LB744, a measure allowing the Game Commission to set up "protected lists" for game threatened with extinction, and LB505, a measure to restrict upland game bird hunting seasons to not more than 60 days.

Scottsbluff Head Cage Coach Quits

Scottsbluff (UPI) — Jerry Hoffman, Scottsbluff High School basketball coach last two years, has announced he will leave the position at the end of the school year.

He will take a job as Director of Admissions for the East Coast for Hiram Scott College. He will begin his duties June 2 and will live in New York City.

This past year Scottsbluff had a 17-4 record which included a 16-game winning streak.

Concordia Job To Seward Man

. . . BADEN NEW CAGE COACH

Robert Baden, who won 113 games over an eight-year period at Seward-Concordia High School from 1958-1966, has been appointed head basketball coach at Concordia College.

Baden, 32, replaces Dr. Stan Brassie, who resigned in the wake of a 1-24 record with the Bulldogs this past season. Brassie's teams were only 5-46 in his two years at the school.

"I thought I'd gotten coaching out of my blood," said Baden, who called the Concordia position "one of the great challenges in the state."

Baden's Seward-Concordia teams won four district titles and made the state tournament Class C field three times, winning the school's only state title in 1960.

Currently a member of the State Board of Education, Baden still resides in Seward and said he is "looking forward to the job" although being slightly concerned about his three-year layoff from coaching.

Concordia has no place to go except up behind a fine group of sophomores like Tom Raabe, who set five school scoring records this past season, Jan Lohmeyer, Brian Naber and Rod Giesselmann.

The latter three were juniors at Seward-Concordia when Baden left a 113-53 record behind. Now he takes over the college team as the trio begins to mature.

Brassie, who will become Baden's assistant, said he stepped down hoping the basketball program would benefit from such a move and indicated he was seeking relief from the mental and physical anguish of the past two seasons.

Stock Market's Gain Moderate

New York (AP) — The stock market made a moderate gain Tuesday, although it failed to sustain the momentum of a smart early advance.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up from the start, and at 12:30 p.m. EST it held a gain of 5.84 points. But it was all downhill after that although the Dow closed at 907.38 with a gain of 3.35 points for the day. It was the first time since last Tuesday that the Dow had finished in the plus column.

Gains also led losses from the start, and at one time they held an advantage of nearly 500. But that also eroded and of 1,553 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 779 advanced while 522 declined.

Volume was 11.21 million shares, compared with 9.15 million shares Monday. Blocks of 10,000 shares or more totaled 58, compared with 40 Monday.

Brokers said the early drive was a continuation of Monday's activity in which the market, after heading lower on news of another prime-rate increase, reversed itself and moved upward. They said the long expected announcement had cleared the air.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks was up 0.16 at 55.22. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up .24 at 98.49.

Eleven of the 20 most-active issues on the New York Exchange showed gains, 7 were down, and 2 were unchanged. Continental Telephone, most-active on 443,000 shares, was off ¾ at 22. A 424,100 shares block of Continental traded earlier at 21½ off 1¼.

Seven of the 20 most-active issues on the American Stock Exchange were ahead, 12 were off, and 1 was unchanged.

The exchange's index gained 16 cents at $29.62. Volume was 4.42 million shares, compared with 4.08 million Monday.

Corporate bonds and U.S. Treasury bonds were mixed.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Estate Planners Are Told Not To Tie Trustee's Hands

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Success Formula

It is a mistake in estate planning to pick trustees and then try to tie their hands.

Business success hinges on a capacity to select persons of competence and integrity and to trust those who have been screened.

Frequently readers ask as to the relative attractiveness of individual vs. corporate (bank or trust company) executors and trustees.

There are intrinsic advantages to the corporate trustee in that he is permanent and not subject to the life span of any individual. In addition, the corporate trustee is staffed with specialists, who are in a position to be versed about investment, tax and related matters. But the other side of the coin is that in some instances the services of a corporate fiduciary may be impersonal. This can be met by appointing a personality who knows the heirs to divide responsibility with the corporate entity as co-executor and co-trust.

Encourage Judgment

In order to overcome the tendency of trustees to be selfishly concerned with avoidance of suits by heirs, wills should be drawn in such a way as to encourage the exercise of judgment and discretion. If executors and trustees are authorized to retain holdings acquired by the deceased in the estate and to act as freely as a prudent individual would, the former or less likely to be inhibited by fear of suits in which they will be surcharged for decisions that don't turn out as well as expected.

This leads to a very practical point. When a testamentary estate, created under a will, involves a variety of heirs, there is sometimes a tendency for corporate trustees to simplify operations by liquidating assets. and putting the estate in cash. This eliminates the risk that there might later be criticism for holding some resources which may deteriorate. Furthermore, an estate in cash can readily be distributed to heirs without the complication of breaking up assets in equitable portions for their heirs.

But there may indeed be hidden disadvantages to heirs in quickly turning stocks and other assets into cash. First the timing of selling may be inappropriate, especially if the assets were acquired for long term investment rather than for in-and-out trading. Secondly, — and vastly more important — the sale of assets deprives the heirs of a better cost basis than the deceased or his estate may have. On stocks acquired years ago at very much lower prices than now prevail, the estate, like an individual, is subject to a capital gains tax. On the other hand, the heirs can under the law get a much more favorable cost basis. Irrespective of the actual historic cost basis years ago to the estate builder, the heirs can attain a new and more favorable cost basis. Under the federal tax law, the executors have the discretion of taking the cost of assets, including stocks, at prices prevailing on the day of death or a year later, which ever proves to be more favorable.

Specific Example

Thus, to give a specific example, if the creator of the estate bought a stock thirty years ago for — say — $4 a share and if at the time of death or a year later, the market quotation for the same stock was $100 a share, the cost basis for the heirs would be $100. Accordingly, if the heirs sell the stock at $104, they would report a taxable capital gain of $4, whereas if the estate sold the same stock before distribution at the same price of $104, it would be subject to a long term capital gain with a ceiling rate of 25% plus 10% surtax on a profit of $100, not $4.

Thus, the hasty liquidation of assets by executors may surrender valuable privileges of the heirs. Secondly, so doing might lose a market position in assets that were wisely chosen.

If the individual co-executor and co-trustee is to be worthy of his hire, he should not be a rubber stamp for quick liquidation or otherwise. Furthermore, the individual fiduciary is expected to have an intimate feeling for the personalities involved, and to temper bureaucratic decisions with the milk of human kindness.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Vision-17 Endorses Highway Program

The State Road Department's 20-year program and the principles of a legislative package to implement it received the support of Vision-17, Inc., at a meeting Tuesday night in Lincoln.

The 17-county area in southeastern Nebraska would be one of the chief beneficiaries of the projected expressways and freeways, according to the chairman of the transportation committee.

Vision-17, a group of businessmen working for the economic development of southeastern Nebraska, aiso voted to support legislation that would permit counties to raise revenue by at least one alternative method, such as a sales tax, wheel tax, income tax or motor fuel tax for road construction. Such legislation would ease the strain for counties who have reached the mill levy ceiling.

Seminar Slated

A seminar for 400-500 residents of the Vision-17 area is scheduled in May at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. Roads, health facilities, industry, schools and other factors of community development will be discussed. Lt. Gov. George Nye of Oklahoma and other speakers will address the group.

Community loyalty, leadership, resources and a vision are essentials to make "a little town tick," Dr. Harold Fiesen, spokesman for the Henderson Community Development Plan, told the board.

People must buy consumer products in the community, businessmen must destroy or use any of the unoccupied buildings on the streets, and local resources must be used to develop industry, said Fiesen, chairman of the board of Henderson's York Manufacturing Co.

Fiesen told the success story of the largely Mennonite community that increased its population, created a tight labor market and increased the value of property in the area.

"We haven't brought in outside money to a great extent," Fiesen said. School consolidation in 1954 was a factor in uniting the community and an active Chamber of Commerce improved the trade area.

The York Manufacturing Co. begun in 1960, now employs 200 of the area residents. The company manufactures grain storage and processing equipment.

Park And Shop Association Elects New Board Members

Three new board members were elected Tuesday to three-year terms by the Lincoln Park and Shop Association.

They are: Ron Tornblom, City National Bank; Roger Duerr, Duerr Salons; and Elmer Beatty, Barker's Shoe Store.

The association also released figures showing that since its operation began in August of 1967, business and professional members have purchased a total of 327,900 parking stamps — of which 281,887 were validated as having been used by shoppers.

The greatest number of Park and Shop stamps (29,825) were used last December, compared to the lowest figure (8,770) validated during the first month of operation.

A report reflecting the financial status of the organization and its expenditures to January 31, 1969 shows that since August 1967, the association's total income was $72,507.50 and expenses totaled $78,025.16.

In January income was $4,555 and expenses $2,936.30.

Members of the board re-elected to three-year terms were: John Lawlor, Lawlor's Sporting Goods & Hardware; John Campbell, Miller and Paine; John Boomer, Boomer's Printing; George Brockley, Wright's Pharmacy.

Re-elected for a one-year term was Mrs. Frieda Alt, Ten-28 Fabrics.

United Church Of Christ Votes To Honor King

The Lincoln Association of the United Church of Christ, represented by 130 delegates from 40 southeastern Nebraska churches, voted Tuesday to donate $50 to the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial in Omaha.

The memorial is making possible youth work and the establishment of a 4-H Club in North Omaha.

Special speaker at the semi-annual meeting was the Rev. Miss Leila Anderson, retired foreign missionary and former 18-year member of the Homelands Board Division of Christian Education for the United Church of Christ.

The Rev. Thomas Evans of Lincoln and the Rev. Francis Turpin of Hallam were appointed by the association's board of directors to act as youth advisors.

Others elected to serve on the organization's various boards were Charles J. Kennedy of Lincoln, the Rev. Kenneth Ulmer of Steinauer, the Rev. Garrett Karow of Seward, Norman Rohlfing of Talmage, Lou H. Nieman of Cook, Mrs. Wilbert Henning of Gladstone and the Rev. Wayne Wetz of Syracuse.

Rites Thursday For B. H. King, Mishap Victim

Bartley — Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday for Bernard H. King, 46, who was killed in an accident on his farm Friday. He was president of the Bartley School Board.

County Attorney J. D. Wood Jr. said Mr. King evidently was working under the box on a truck when the box fell and killed him.

His body was found by a neighbor, County Commissioner Eldon Moore who had gone to look for him after he failed to return home.

Expert Nixes Idea Of Regional Airport

A Chicago airport consultant told the Airport Authority Tuesday that a regional airport to serve Lincoln and Omaha would be impractical at the present time.

Larry Donoghue, who appeared before the Airport Authority to present the final draft of a plan for improving airport facilities, said the concept of a regional airport would not be good for Lincoln and Omaha now.

"Omaha is already committed to an expansion program and must pay for the expansion before the city could consider undertaking such a venture with Lincoln," Donoghue said.

He said he did not think Omaha would abandon its facility in view of the expansion effort.

'Maybe Later'

"A regional airport might make sense to look into as to the feasibility of it in 1990," the airport consultant said.

During the meeting, the Airport Authority members accepted the final draft of Donoghue's report.

Donoghue indicated improvements would be made in three separate stages, with the first two stages costing more than $10 million. The Airport Authority would raise $7 million through revenue bonds.

Plan Not Adopted

Chairman Joe Hampton noted that the acceptance of the report does not mean the plan has been adopted for implementation.

He said public hearings will be held and copies will be distributed before the plan can be formally adopted.

Donoghue said the report represents a flexible approach to expanding the Lincoln airport facilities, which he termed to be "totally inadequate to meet today's air traffic situation."

The airport consultant said the present airport terminal is half the size it should be and that the city is being hurt by the poor airline service to the city.

Traffic To Grow

He said, however, that air traffic will grow rapidly in Lincoln despite the substandard conditions. "You must be ready for the increased growth," he told the Airport Authority commissioners.

Donoghue recommended that the first phase of expansion, including the construction of a new terminal, be finished by 1972.

"The prime requisite is that a new terminal, capable of handling the projected passenger traffic for the year 1980, be constructed as soon as possible," he said.

Donoghue said construction would require approval of the report by the Federal Aviation Agency and Nebraska Department of Aeronautics and urged the authority to get the needed approval as soon as possible.
